Marin Cracks Down On Teen Dope Traffic

YACHT SEIZED—Sausalito Police Chief Kenneth Huck and state fish and game inspector Ellis Berry inspect yacht aboard which two Sausalito men were arrested Thursday night in the premature first phase of last night's long-planned marijuana raids. The boat, "La Barca" was brought to a restricted dock at Fort Baker by a fish and game crew. It contains radioactive lead as ballast.

Big Police Raid Nets Arrests, Marijuana

By JEFF GREER

The largest police raid in Marin County history last night chopped off a supply of marijuana which had been keeping an estimated 150 Southern Marin teen-agers "turned on."

By midnight, three adults and three juveniles had been arrested on warrants charging sales of marijuana, and nearly five pounds of the stuff worth $5,000 was seized.

Another adult and four more juveniles were arrested today, bringing the total apprehended to four adults and seven juveniles.

Today, scores of Mill Valley, Sausalito and other Southern Marin teen-agers—mostly Tamalpais High School students—were being questioned by state narcotics agents, Mill Valley and Sausalito police. More arrests were held likely.

Otis E. A. Hayes, 38, of Apt. 27, 7 Excelsior Lane, Sausalito, was arrested today along with a 17-year-old Marin City youth, and three Mill Valley juveniles.

The Mill Valley trio, all students of Tamalpais High School, were picked up on a house-to-house search, according to Mill Valley Police Chief Dan Terzich.

Last night's raid was preceded by the arrest of two yachtsmen in Sausalito on Thursday, after undercover agents purchased marijuana from them in pound and "kilo" lots.

The arrests were kept secret, to avoid tipping the hand of lawmen who had been working for six months to clean up a marijuana and narcotics problem which had worried public officials and parents, and had gotten Marin County nationwide publicity.

Last night's raids were preceded by a press conference in a rented room at the Fireside Motel, which police used as their headquarters for the series of raids.

Joint "Chiefs of Staff" for the raids and the press conference were Matthew O'Connor, agent in charge of the State Narcotics Bureau, Sausalito Police Chief James Huck and Mill Valley Police Chief Dan Terzich.

They recited how parents and public officials had voiced alarm to lawmen about rumored marijuana smoking sprees, and how District Atty. Bruce Bales, County Board of Supervisors

HAD TWO KILOS—Don Edward Fleischer, Sausalito glassblower, is taken into custody at 7 p.m. yesterday on Ebbtide Avenue, Sausalito, by Marin County Sheriff's Inspector A. V. Menjou during widespread raid on southern Marin marijuana sellers. Two kilos of marijuana—enough to make 2,400 cigarettes—were found, neatly wrapped, in Fleischer's car. Pregnant Mother Is Killed In Head-On Highway Crash

A 25-year-old Daly City mother, five months pregnant, was killed early this morning when the car she was riding in was struck by an auto going the wrong way down Highway 101's Waldo Grade.

Simone Ann Smith, a cocktail waitress who lived and worked in Daly City, died in a local hospital two hours after the grinding 2:30 a.m. collision.

She was being driven home from the Bermuda Palms Motel by Douglas C. Smith, 20, of San Francisco. The two were not related.

Smith told California Highway Patrol officers he was going 55 miles per hour in the southbound lanes to San Francisco when "I just saw two headlights coming at me out of nowhere and I tried to swerve out of his way."

The oncoming car, traveling north at about 35 miles per hour in the southbound lanes, was driven by David Howard Morton, 36, of San Francisco, an employee of a San Rafael auto dealer. Investigation was underway today to determine if charges would be filed against him.

Smith swerved his car to the left and the two cars slammed together. Mrs. Smith, thrown against the dash of the car, suffered a fatal head injury. Morton received a cut lip and Douglas Smith escaped injury.

A San Francisco ambulance, traveling to San Francisco, stopped at the accident but, according to Patrol Sgt. James C. Dukes, refused to take Mrs. Smith to the hospital.

Dukes said the attendant for King-American Ambulance Co. of San Francisco, Ronald W. Robertson of San Francisco, told him he would not transport the victim because his company could not afford to assume liability if she died.

The attendant gave first aid to Mrs. Smith until a Marin Ambulance arrived 12 minutes later.

Dukes said Morton was confused when queried by officers, and was unable to say how he got on the wrong side of the highway. He said he had worked late, then visited a friend in

Marincello Plan To Get First Hearing

First hearing on the controversial planned City of Marincello will be held before the Marin County Planning Commission at the Civic Center Monday starting at 9 a.m.

The big debate is expected to be over density.

County Planning Director B. D. Dobbs will recommend against lifting the maximum density as has been requested by the Frouge Corp., developers of Marincello.

The planned community zone allows 3.5 residential units per acre. For the 2,130-acre city, this would mean a population of 24,000.

Frouge has asked that the maximum be lifted and a density of 5.9 or a total of 31,000 people be permitted.

A full house is expected for the debate.

Conservationists have already opposed the proposal vigorously, while — until last night — organized labor has backed it with fervor because it would create jobs.

Last night, however, the San Francisco Labor Council overruled pleas of the Plumbers Union, the Marin County Labor Council, and its own executive committee and voted its oppo-

Spacemen Pass Half-Way Mark, Get Signal To Complete Flight

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — U.S. space champs James McDivitt and Edward White soared into their third day in space today and passed the half-way mark on their record four-day flight. They had a "system green" signal to keep on to the end.

An excessive flow of oxygen into the Gemini-4 capsule was noted but posed no problem, officials said. The astronauts had more than half their oxygen supply left.

The space twins were north of Savannah, Ga., when they started the 32nd orbit and passed the half-way mark at 12:17 p.m. EDT.

They had traveled nearly 880,000 miles, the equivalent of almost two round trips to the moon, and they felt fine.

At 11:16 a.m. EDT McDivitt and White completed two full days in flight, confident, relaxed and in excellent condition. They entered their third day aloft at a point 200 miles north of Johannesburg, Union of South Africa.

They were in their 31st orbit when they reached the 48-hour mark of their 97½ hour flight, a little more than an hour away from the half-way mark in the voyage that already has surpassed all U.S. astronaut records.

Three additional Soviet marks will have fallen when they splash down in the Atlantic off Bermuda at mid-day Monday.

Overpressurization has been "bleeding" more oxygen than needed into the craft. McDivitt was instructed to use a valve to reduce pressure and correct the problem.

"They have been using oxygen at the rate of 25 per cent more than they have been normally," a space agency spokesman said.

The cabin remained air tight.

U.S. Jets Bomb North Viet Port Facilities, Bridges

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. jet fighters bombed port facilities, bridges and highway traffic in a series of widespread raids over Communist North Viet Nam today. One group attacked a coal yard, the first time U.S. planes have hit an economic target.

Observers noted that coal is one of the Communist North's main industries and speculated that the American planes might be starting attacks against targets of economic importance.

A U.S. military spokesman said 20 Navy Skyhawks from the carrier Midway hit port facilities at Vinh, 160 miles south of Hanoi, with 72 tons of bombs, Bullpup missiles and Zuni rockets.

Pilots reported direct Bullpup hits on a wharf and a ship moored alongside it. A spokesman was unable to identify the ship and said he did not know the vessel's registry or what flag it was flying.

Air Force jets damaged or destroyed 12 trucks during a 30-minute raid against important highways 75 to 90 miles north of the border and knocked out a wooden bridge.

Minor skirmishes were reported throughout South Viet Nam where South Vietnamese Air Force and U.S. Air Force, Marine and Navy aircraft flew a total of 219 sorties in the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. today.

Teen-Ager Has 'Dream Weekend'

By ALAN CUNNINGHAM

Other teen-age girls have pictures of Beatles on their walls, but not Georgia Cameron of Kentfield. She digs Rolls-Royces.

This weekend, therefore, will undoubtedly prove to be an unforgettable one for the Redwood High School freshman as would be a night on the town with the Liverpool mopheads for most of her classmates.

For two days, she has her own Rolls-Royce.

The magic weekend started yesterday afternoon when she left school and found one of the big English luxury cars sitting at the curb waiting for her. At the wheel was her "chauffeur"—known to his friends as Frank T. Cameron and around the Cameron household as Daddy at any other time.

But it really goes back much further than that, according to Georgia's mother, Mrs. Leslie Cameron, who says the whole thing began with a television show called "Burke's Law."

Enchanted by the car driven by the program's hero, a wealthy detective, Georgia became obsessed with Rolls-Royces. Soon she talked of nothing but the English cars, and even persuaded her father to take her to San Francisco on Sundays so she could admire the

BETTER THAN BEATLES—Feeling like Cinderella when she got out of school yesterday, awestruck Redwood High School freshman Georgia Cameron (second from left) of Kentfield admired the shiny new Rolls-Royce which was hers for the weekend. Don't Overdo Conservation, Conference On Future Told Marin citizens were urged today to set goals for development of Marin.

Naphtali H. Knox of Mill Valley, community planner at the University of California, issued the challenge this morning at the start of a one-day Future of Marin conference at the College of Marin.

"Don't overdo the conservation aspect," Knox said in a speech prepared for the conference. "We have much to preserve, and you should speak out about what should be preserved."

At the same time, he noted, "It is development which will change the face of this county. Accept that as a challenge."

Knox's speech said that residents should state their goals clearly and realistically "in a way that will guide new growth to create the kind of community you want."

He said Marin is being engulfed by development, with hills being carved up. "Smog-abating trees are cut for smog-producing fireplaces. Asphalt, chain-link fences and billboards point the way to the next tract development."

The conference, sponsored by the Citizens Advisory Committee on the Development of Marin, is intended "to help point the way for us, our supervisors and councilmen, and our planners and engineers," as well as to

Body Found Floating Off Stinson Beach

John Boone, a San Francisco fisherman, discovered a body floating near rock along the ocean south of Stinson Beach this morning.

The Marin County Coroner's office and sheriff's deputies were dispatched to investigate. At press time, there was no description of the body available.

DO YOU KNOW

What They Want?
(Most people don't)

Marincello's Eastern promoters will ask the Marin Planning Commission Monday (9 a.m.) that we scrap entirely our long-standing, hard-won controls over density of housing on land in the critical "Planned Community" category. (That is the ordinance that says only 3½ families (on an average) may live on an acre; there are now no cities in Marin with more than 3 per acre; most are far lower.)

This would mean that land profiteers, now waiting hungrily, would move in with many other demands for skyscraper towns under "Planned Community" zoning — and the Commission could not plausibly refuse.

The Golden Gate is the West's most significant symbol; we cannot let the nation say that Marin did not guard its heritage faithfully!

This is the only hearing on the all-important density question. Be at the Planning Commission, Civic Center, or write or telegraph!

Senators Vote Amendment To Split California

Assembly, Governor Appear Ready To Head Off Proposal

SACRAMENTO (AP) — —California's embattled Senate, fighting reapportionment like the '49ers beat off gold mining claim jumpers, has acted to California's embattled Senate, split the nation's most populous state in two.

But the State Assembly, Gov. Edmund G. Brown — and maybe the Congress of the United States — all appeared ready to head the move off at the pass.

Sen. Richard J. Dolwig, a Republican from San Mateo, offered his plan as an answer to a federal court order for the rural-dominated Senate to reapportion itself by July 1.

Dolwig reacted in angry, frontier fashion to an order that would turn the legislative upper house over to populous counties — particularly those in the southern part of the state.

But the Assembly, dominated by Southern California, was certain to turn the plan down.

"We're one state, one California," snapped Assemblyman Don Allen, D-Los Angeles, whose assembly committee would have to approve the legislation.

Gov. Brown has spoken similarly in the past.

The Senate voted 27-12 last night for a constitutional amendment dividing the state at the Tehachapi Mountains. A 22-16 vote sent a companion bill to the Assembly. Pending is a resolution asking Congress to approve the separation.

The southern state would have a population of 10.3 million — the third largest in the nation. It would consist of Los Angeles, Ventura, San Bernardino, Orange, Riverside, San Diego and Imperial counties.

The northern state, which would have 7.8 million people, would have 51 counties.

One senator said "there are two different worlds in Califor-

He echoed the sentiment of many members of the 40-seat Senate, dominated by men from lightly populated northern farm and mountain counties. Their constituencies still bear the scars of hundreds of once-prosperous gold mines — and their constituents like to think of themselves as the independent-minded descendents of the gold miners who came to California in the mid 1850s.

Assembly Demos, GOP In Budget Agreement

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Democrats and Republicans reached agreement last night on a budget compromise, paving the way for lower chamber passage of the record spending program early next week.

The agreement called for cuts totaling $21.6 million in the $4.16 billion Assembly version of Gov. Edmund G. Brown's fiscal 1965-66 budget.

Republican leaders called it a "sound, acceptable" budget and said it would have support from a majority of the 31 Republicans in the Assembly when it comes up for a roll call vote Monday or Tuesday.

The cuts would include outright elimination of the state economic development agency and office of atomic energy development and radiation protection. The state consumer counsel would be cut back by $100,000 a year.

The largest total cuts came in welfare expenditures, chopped by $13.6 million, and in a category called "unidentified savings," trimmed by $1.5 million.

Even with the cuts, Republican leaders conceded token new taxes will be needed to balance the spending program. They had hoped to avoid the taxes.

But Assemblyman Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, GOP floor leader, and Assemblyman Don Mulford, R-Piedmont, caucus chairman, told a news conference that the simplest tax would be a five-cent-a-pack increase in cigarette taxes suggested by Brown.

Bagley Reports On Hectic Session Of Legislature

This session of the legislature is turning into one of the most hectic ones Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, has experienced, he reported late yesterday.

Among the reasons are the the bill (AB 1020) provided a physical jam-up of thousands of bills, and the last minute changes required in several bills affecting Marin County.

Bagley said the final amendment on the Marin district attorney's salary bill almost came too late for approval, but he was able to catch it before it got to the governor's desk for signature in the original form.

After several amendments, salary increase for the Marin Dist. Atty. Bruce Bales from the present $16,500 to $23,000, beginning in 1967. This bill had passed both the Assembly and the Senate and was on its way to the governor for signature.

On Tuesday, the Marin County Board of Supervisors voted to raise Bales' salary to $24,000. When Tuesday's Independent-Journal reached the state Capitol Wednesday morning, Bagley's secretary spotted the story and rushed the paper to Bagley on the Assembly floor.

"The bill was already on its way to the governor," said Bagley. "We called the printer. Fortunately, it was still there, which meant that technically it was still in control of the legislature's Committee on Enrollment."

Bagley asked the Assembly to have the bill removed from the committee and returned to the Assembly floor.

Then he persuaded the Assembly to vote the bill back to the Senate, where Sen John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, is to have the Senate's approval recinded, and have the bill sent back to the third reading file. There, it will be changed to read $24,000 instead of $23,000.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Bullets Fired Into Deputy's Home

BOGALUSA, La. (AP)—Gunmen fired six bullets into the home of the chief deputy sheriff early today as officers pressed their investigation of a terrorist-style murder.

Moore

Chief Deputy Doyle Holliday, who lives about four miles out of town, said he rushed from his house and emptied his .38-caliber Magnum pistol at a fleeing car.

Two of the bullets fired by the nightriders ripped through the kitchen wall. Two hit an air conditioning unit and another lodged in the wall of a breezeway to the garage.

The shooting came as state, federal and local officers pressed a massive investigation into the shooting of Washington Parish's first Negro deputy sheriff —O'Neal Moore.

A white man charged in the case, Ernest R. McElveen, 41, of Bogalusa, waived extradition yesterday and was returned to Louisiana from Tylertown, Miss., where he was arrested.

JOHNSON PLEDGES NEGRO RIGHTS

President Says Equality Is Chief Goal; Announces White House Conference Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson, stating that the American Negro is still "another nation" despite civil rights laws, says the chief goal of his administration is to give Negroes their full rights as Americans.

In one of the most far-reaching statements he has made on racial problems, Johnson announced last night he will call a White House conference on equality this fall as a first step.

The President pledged himself to "shatter forever. . .the walls which bound the condition of man by the color of his skin" in an address at commencement exercises of Howard University, a predominantly Negro institution here.

Hundreds of Negroes pressed forward to shake the President's hand at the close of the speech as a choir softly sang "We Shall Overcome" in the background.

Johnson said that Negroes had been "buried under a blanket of history and circumstance" and that white Americans were largely responsible. He said an "understanding heart" on the part of white persons was more important than civil rights laws.

"The harsh fact of the matter is that in the battle for true equality too many are losing ground," the President said.

He told his audience that many Negroes are trapped in "inherited gateless poverty" that is not quite like the poverty of whites.

He said other minority groups that have fought their way free of poverty did not have to face barriers caused by the color of their skin or a cultural tradition "which had been twisted and battered by endless years of hatred and hopelessness."

Johnson said he "will dedicate the expanding efforts of my administration" to solving problems relating to "breakdown of the Negro family structure," unemployment, lack of decent homes, welfare and social programs and other elements of the drive to improve the Negro's lot.

"But there are other answers still to be found," the President said. "Nor do we fully understand all the problems. Therefore, this fall I intend to call a White House conference of scholars, experts, Negro leaders, and officials at every level of government.

He said its aim would be "to dissolve, as best we can, the antique enemities of the heart which diminish the holder, divide the great democracy, and do wrong to the children of God.

"I pledge this will be a chief goal of my administration, of my program next year, and in years to come."

Huge Posse Hunts For Bank Employee Killer

BIG SPRINGS, Neb. (AP) — A huge posse spread out across sprawling plains of western Nebraska and eastern Colorado today, hunting an icy-calm gunman who killed three bank employees with shots in the back and wounded a fourth.

"Every available man in 100 miles is taking part," said Sheriff Floyd Stahr.

Late yesterday Sheriff Stahr, a 6-foot-4 man in a wide-brim Western hat, made his headquarters in the bank. State troopers, FBI agents, sheriff's officers and police from neighboring towns trooped in to report to him.

The 510 residents of this village astride the Denver-to-North Platte highway 10 miles north of the Colorado border were stunned by the killings yesterday.

"I have no idea why he shot them," said County Atty. Robert Richards. "They didn't resist when he told them to lay down on their stomachs."

The gunman fired eight times as the four lay on the floor of the Farmers State Bank. Three died instantly. The fourth was critically wounded.

Killed were Andreas Kjeldgaard, 77, a bachelor who was president of the bank; Glenn Hendricksen, 59, the cashier; and Lois Ann Hothan, 35, bookkeeper.

Fraklin Kjeldgaard, 25, nephew of Andreas, was taken to a Denver hospital with wounds in the neck and back. The hospital said today he was in critical condition.

It was noon when the gunman drove up to the little red-brick bank on Main Street.

Franklin Kjeldgaard, barely able to talk, told police the man "didn't seem tough" when he entered the bank. He said the killer was about 35, and wore his hair crew cut. He was neatly dressed in a dark suit.

Ceremonies are at the grove of memory, 39 redwood trees planted by San Francisco Native Sons and Daughters chapters.

Man Is Booked In Check Case

Bobert Bruce Dietrich, 21, formerly of San Rafael was booked by San Anselmo police at 6:02 p.m. yesterday for allegedly passing $50 worth of bad checks at Safeway and Lucky markets in San Anselmo and Fairfax.

The Safeway check, for $25, was cashed April 28, according to Asst. Chief Sam Serio, who picked Dietrich up in Berekeley, where campus police were holding him.

Bail was set at $550 for Dietrich, who had lived at 99 Woodland Avenue while attending College of Marin. He gave no address but said his father lives in Granada Hills, Los Angeles County.

Marin Cracks Down On Teen Dope Traffic

Chairman Peter H. Behr, Sausalito Mayor Jan Paul Dyk, Councilman Melvin Wax, Tamalpais High officials and others had cooperated in the long investigation.

Flying squads of plain-clothes men—23 in all—from Sausalito, Mill Valley, the sheriff's department, and sometimes state agents, fanned out throughout the evening to arrest as many as possible of the 13 suspects for whom Bales had obtained arrest warrants on marijuana sales charges. The officials said undercover agents had made more than 22 separate "makes" or purchases of the weed.

Arrested yesterday were:

Ira Lewis Edwards, 19, of 135 Drake Avenue, Marin City, no occupation. He was lured by an undercover agent to the motel, where he was arrested and booked on a charge of selling marijuana earlier. Police said he also faces a burglary charge.

Don Edward Fleischer, 20, of General Delivery, Sausalito, an unemployed glass blower who when arrested was wearing earrings concealed beneath shoulder-length blond locks. He was arrested on Ebbtide Avenue in Sausalito on a warrant charging sale of marijuana. Arresting officers said they found two kilos — 4.4 pounds — of marijuana in his small foreign car when the arrest was made. It was in two packages neatly wrapped in Mexican newspapers.

Richard Nixon Applebee, 21, of 20 Olive Street, Larkspur. An artist, and also a long-haired blond, he wore bicycle chain bracelets on his wrist and ankle when arrested.

The three adults were being held today at Marin County jail in lieu of $5,500 bail.

A 16-year-old Tamalpais boy was brought to the motel and charged with a felony—offering to sell marijuana. He lives in Sausalito; he was taken to Marin County Juvenile Hall.

A 17-year-old Tam youth from Mill Valley was arrested in the Mill Valley Youth Council dance at the golf club, charged with selling.

Another 17-year-old Mill Valley youth, a mechanic, was arrested on Tennessee Valley Road on charges of selling, and for possession of two plastic bags and a small plastic barrel full of marijuana. Both boys also were taken to juvenile hall.

The officials said the marijuana seized was worth up to $5,000 at current rates, in individual cigarettes.

The results of the raids, plus what is found out in today's interviews slated for 35 to 50 or more teen-agers, will be presented to the Marin County Grand Jury on Wednesday.

In addition to last night's press conference, at which participants were sworn to secrecy until this afternoon, the whole case had overtones of an Ian Fleming detective novel.

There was a yacht involved, ballasted with radioactive lead traded by undercover agents for marijuana. There was a girl in a tight pink sweater who was too curious about what was going on. There were undercover agents' cars with built-in tape recorders and a swarm of walkie - talkie - bearing plain-clothes men.

The yacht was seized Thursday, when its owner, Peter Wright Lenihan, 31, of 420 Third Street, Sausalito, and friend Alexander Rossknecht, 27, of 10 Reed Lane, Sausalito were arrested on marijuana sales charges.

O'Connor described that phase thus:

"During one of the purchases, the traffickers asked for metal ballast for the boat La Barca, preferably lead ingots which are used by printers . . . The State Bureau finally located the lead ingots, valued at $100 per hundredweight, through newspapers' cooperation. Because of the problem of identifying the lead, particularly if melted, down, the Bureau men took it to the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory in Berkeley where a radioactive tracer was added.

The boat's ballast is to be checked by Atomic Energy Commission experts today. The 42-foot ketch is tied up at Fort Baker.

The too-interested girl was arrested after Sausalito Police Sgt. John Higgins recognized her as the subject of a felony warrant issued in Los Angeles County. He charged her with passing a forged prescription for dangerous drugs, in a case entirley separate from last night's marijuana crackdown. She had been watching the activity at the police headquarters in the motel, as had a number of other curious bystanders.

When it was all over, state agents said they thought marijuana would be scarce in Marin County "for a while."

Agents Forrest Jones and Henry Lopes, undercover men who spent some six months seeking out dope salesmen in Southern Marin, estimated that up to 150 teen-agers had been smoking marijuana sold to them by bohemian pals, Marin City residents, and in some cases by high school dropouts who remained on the campus fringes.

They cited cases of unhealthy, naive hero-worship of the older "beatniks," and of some youngsters boasting not only of smoking marijuana, but of carrying weapons. Several other state agents, Sausalito Detective Herb Smith and Mill Valley Officer John Castellani also worked undercover.

Federal agents joined them in trailing the "La Barca" from Pittsburg to Sausalito, before the arrests were made.

No "Mister Big" was found. The Marin County narcotics sales were made by individuals rather than an organization, the officers stressed, since it is too easy for a would-be seller to buy marijuana in Mexico for $25 to $50 a kilo. Each kilo will make up to 1,200 cigarettes, they explained.

In secret, the Sausalito City council and the Marin County supervisors had given police and Dist. Atty. Bales the money to help the undercover operation; the state had to supply most of the money for actual purchases by which agents incriminated the salesmen, it was explained.

The investigation almost came to a halt in March after a Time magazine story on nacotics users, law enforcement officers reported.

Time ran a picture of a girl reportedly taken while she was attending a marijuana party in Sausalito. "It caused a fervor the narcotic users and traffickers set which anticipated that the law enforcement officers might become more interested in their activities."

Bales declared today, "Narcotics offenses . . . rank next to crimes of violence in order of despicability, and I do not intend to permit narcotics to gain even a toehold here in Marin; to this end I will demand prison sentences for all adult peddlers and pushers.

"I am not too concerned with how lenient other jurisdictions may be toward the use of marijuana by our young people. . . . Our beautiful Marin County is the greatest place in the world to live and raise our children and I intend to do all in my power to keep it so, clean and free of the criminal element which inevitably surrounds narcotics traffic."

ROLLS

shiny new ones in a Van Ness Avenue showroom.

"When we passed one on the highway, I was glad we had seat belts in the car," explains Mrs. Cameron, "because if we didn't she would have jumped out the window."

Aware that it would be futile to ask for a Rolls-Royce for her birthday, Georgia got her mother to say she would rent one on the big day next December. British Motor Car Distributors Ltd. beat Mrs. Cameron to the punch, however.

When Georgia saw a magazine coupon offer for a "Rolls-Royce manual," her father dutifully sent it in. It took the booklets weeks to arrive from England and when it got here, it turned out to be a book written for mechanics.

In the meantime, however, the San Francisco agency got the word. The Camerons started getting brochures and letters asking when they would like to take a test drive.

"We couldn't afford to have a fender fixed on one of them," Mrs. Cameron observes. Her husband quickly wrote back and pointed this out. Slightly fearful that he woudn't be believed, he added that the manual was for his daughter.

At this point, someone at British Motor Car Distributors Ltd. decided to make the most of the situation.

In a letter signed by an Ian Stuart-Smith, the agency offered to let Cameron borrow a car for his daughter's use for a weekend. When told of the offer, Georgia refused to believe it, so Stuart-Smith sent his next letter directly to her.

Since then, there has been no living with the young Royce-ophile, her mother says. All conversation in the house has dealt, in one way or another, with the same topic.

In between quotations from the proverbs uttered by Burke at the end of each television episode, Georgia has dropped not-so-subtle hints about such things as a wardrobe for the dream weekend or hiring a Filipino chauffer."

After her dramatic debut at school, Georgia's itinerary called for her to spend today and tomorrow visiting friends in San Jose. Presumably, they will be properly impressed. If the car has not turned into a pumpkin, it will return to its showroom Monday morning.

Unable to fight the constant flow of Rolls-Royce talk in her home, Mrs. Cameron tried to squelch her daughter with a pun:

"A Rollsing stone gathers no Royce—Mamma's Law," she announced. Georgia laughed, but the talk did not stop.

Inverness Opposing Change In Density

Directors of the Inverness Improvement Association last night adopted a resolution opposing any change in the maximum density of 3.5 units per acre in planned residential districts for Marin County.

Frouge Corp., proponents of the controversial Marincello, has asked that the maximum be lifted in order to have a density of 5.9 in Marincello. The first hearing on Frouge's application will be before county planning commission Monday.

IIA said in its resolution that there should be no change without extensive hearings and that any adjustments should be considered on a county-wide basis.

Association president Elmer V. Williams reported last night that he has investigated some of the facts of incorporation and has found that the only feasible plan for the city of Inverness would involve Inverness Park, Inverness and Sea Haven. He said this area would have an assessed value of $2,861,040 and a population of about 1,175.

Williams said these figures, particularly the population, would be the only slightly over the minimum requirements for any city formation. Directors asked Williams to compile a report to be presented at the Association's annual meeting July 10.

where between 5 and 10 hours (supply of oxygen) above necessary, even at the present rate he's using it right now."

McDivitt was asked not to "relieve overboard" — not to let the oxygen out of the capsule.

Like space tourists, the astronauts passed within view yesterday of a strange - looking satellite. McDivitt reported it had "big arms sticking out."

A space agency spokesman said late last night the sighting came when Pegasus II was "two thousand kilometers away in a proper direction to be observed." That is 1,242 miles — but officials said it was not too far for a visual space observation.

But this was no space mystery. Officials were fairly certain, pending an official check, that it was Pegasus II, an American detection satellite launched May 25.

The 23,100-pound satellite was designed to study the space hazards and its 96-foot wide "arms" sweep space for meteoroids.

Today, there was a possibility that things were going well enough to allow them to talk briefly with their children.

Both men were catching up on sleep lost in the first hectic hours after the liftoff Thursday morning at 11:16 a.m. EDT.

MARIN FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

12:10 p.m., Point Reyes Station — Smoke check turned out to be open burning.

4:09 p.m., San Rafael — False alarm at box at 173 West End Avenue and Sentinel Court, near Hill Haven Convalescent Hospital.

4:55 p.m., San Rafael — Fire damaged acoustical board, wall board and studding at apartment under construction at Canal and Novato Street; started by plumber's torch; damage not estimated.

PLANS

sition to Marincello.

The council concluded, after a long debate, that "preserving green grass" was more important than making jobs.

At Monday's hearing, proponents will first present their plan, then commissioners will hear Dobbs' recommendation against lifting the density maximum. Should the commission back Dobbs' request it would mean that the plan would have to be amended or else the commission's decision would have to be appealed to the board of supervisors.

Dobbs has said he does not want to get into a discussion of the plan itself until the density question is settled. He said, however, that he has reservations on the merits of the plan, particularly on its traffic patterns and the feasibility of developing it as a self-contained community, with industry and commercial centers as proposed.

The hearing is expected to continue through the morning and possibly into the afternoon. It is the first and biggest item on the day's agenda.

Today, Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, announced that Frouge Corp., for which he is an attorney, has agreed to dedicate school sites in Marincello at cost, as proposed in a bill authored by Bagley which is being pushed through the legislature.

AB 1238, proposed by Novato School District trustee William Kirk, passed the assembly yesterday. It provides that subdividers who build 400 or more units in a school district in a three-year period must dedicate elementary school sites at the original cost of the site and any improvements.

FATAL

Corte Madera.

When leaving Corte Madera. Morton said, he drove on to the highway to go to San Francisco. Officers could not determine at what point the car had turned around and started travelling north.

Douglas Smith, a musician in a band playing at Bermuda Palms, told officers he met Mrs. Smith in the bar at the hotel. He said he was driving her home and another couple was following in her car.

Her husband, Harold D. Smith, a mechanic, told County Coroner Frank J. Keaton that his wife had gone to Bermuda Palms looking for a new job.

Surviving are her husband; a 3-year-old daughter, Dawn; her father, Andrew Jensen of Lake County; five sisters and four brothers.

An autopsy was to be performed at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel in Mill Valley. Funeral arrangements are pending.

Fatal Dominican Blast Probed

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — U.S. and Organization of American States officials launched an investigation today to learn the origin of mysterious cannon fire which killed a woman and a young girl in rebel-held territory last night.

American officials said the eight or more shells were not fired by U.S. troops. They said paratroops along the corridor reported two rounds of 20 or 37 millimeter fire fell near American lines. They did not return the fire because they could not see where it came from.

United Nations observers and rebels both reported eight projectiles fell within the rebel area but they could not specify what kind of shells they were or who fired them.

Little Hope Seen On Bagley Bills

With the Dannemeyer state appraiser reform bill killed yesterday by a State Assembly committee, little hope is held for passage before June 18 adjournment of two similar bills awaiting lower house action.

A proposal by San Rafael Assemblyman William T. Bagley, more drastic than the one by Assemblyman William E. Dannemeyer of Fullerton, goes to the Assembly floor next week.

Yesterday's bill denied by a 6-3 vote in the Government Organization Committee, would have continued controller appointees but set standards for inheritance appraisers.

Routine Business

Routine business was discussed at last night's regular monthly meeting of the Bolinas Beach Public Utility District, reported director Alice Cassidy.

Track Star In Marijuana Case

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Four Galileo High School students were arrested and charged with selling marijuana yesterday after they allegedly sold cigarettes containing the nacotic to a teacher who was working with police.

Joesiah Bell, 18, a school track star, was accused of supplying the marijuana. Two girls, both 16, and a 17-year-old boy also were held.

According to police, the teacher, whose name was withheld, overheard the two girls talking about marijuana. He let them know he would be interested in buying some, and subsequently made six buys, paying from 75 cents for one cigaret to $1 for three.

Bell also was arrested May 18 on suspicion of assaulting a San Francisco Municipal Railway bus driver.

Synanon Study Is Promised

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, said he has been promised a between-sessions legislative study of the Synanon Foundation.

McCarthy conceded last night that the Senate killed for this session his Synanon bill by sending it back to the Senate Finance Committee.

The measure would have extended state and local controls over the private narcotics addict treatment group.

Woman Injured In 3-Car Crash

Mrs. Clair C. Muller, 38, of 47 Barber Avenue, San Anselmo, was treated for cuts on her face and ankle yesterday afternoon at Marin General Hospital after her car was caught in the middle of a three-car crash on Waldo Grade.

She collided with the rear of a car driven by Kevin Berry, 38, of Santa Rosa. He had stopped behind a car which was parked, locked and unoccupied with a flat tire, in the fast southbound lane.

Another car, driven by William Mason, 31, of San Francisco, then rounded the corner and crashed into Mrs. Muller's car.

Mrs. Muller's two sons, aged one and six, who were riding with her, were uninjured. The two other drivers did not complain of injuries.

Funds Asked For Education Probe

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Democratic leaders of the Senate and the Assembly have asked for $150,000 for an investigation of higher education, including the University of California.

A resolution authorizing the study was introduced in the Assembly yesterday on behalf of ailing Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D-Los Angeles, and Senate President Pro Tem Hugh M. Burns, D-Fresno.

It calls for a 10-member committee, made up of five members from each house.

Brief Meeting

859 Suggest Seal Names

Approximately 859 entries were received by yesterday's deadline in the week-long seal-naming contest at the Louise A. Boyd Natural Science Museum in San Rafael.

Winning names for the two new young harbor seals will be announced tomorrow at 4 p.m. during the Museum's 10th anniversary party, open to the public.

Prizes include a five-gallon aquarium, transistor radio and a dissecting kit.

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

Showings Of The Pomeroy Voyage Set In Belvedere

By MOLLY MARIN

The much postponed Belvedere showing of the William Pomeroys' pictures of their around - the - world voyage aboard their yacht Nereus has been definitely set for 8:30 p.m., June 17 at Whitaker Hall. Pomeroy is now back in Marin and Mrs. Pomeroy is due to return from Europe on Monday.

ADDED TO the Nereus film will be some shots of the little-known Seychelles, tiny islands in the Indian Ocean off Madagascar, which the Pomeroys visited on their recent tour.

The Belvedere program, open to the public, will benefit St. Stephens parish day school. Mrs. Charles Knapp of Belvedere, president of the school's parents club, heads a committee which includes Mrs. James Derryberry, Tiburon, in charge of ushers; Mrs. Fred J. Hassner, San Rafael, publicity; and Mrs. James Grisham, Mill Valley, refreshments.

MR. AND MRS. James Michael, who were on the Nereus during the Greek island leg of the year long cruise, will host a dinner party for the Pomeroys, the Knapps, and the Rev. and Mrs. Llewellyn A. White at their Belvedere home. The Dickerson McAfees of Belvedere, the Derryberrys and the James Atkins of Corinthian Island are also planning parties.

QUITE A FEW comings and goings will take place at the Mill Valley home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Trow Cutter this summer. Kitsy, who is 12 and a sixth grade student at Dominican School, will spend the month of June in Vienna with the Peter Von Meiling family. Mrs. Von Meiling is the former Rosario Wharton of San Francisco and former Dominican classmate of Kitsy's mother. From there she will travel to Rome where she will spend July with the Marquis and Marquise Maranolia of Spolito and Rome. The Marquise is the former Tiny Capiolani Koananakoa, who also attended Dominican College with Mrs. Cutter.

Karen Cutter, their 11-year-old who attends Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, will attend summer camp in Carmel Valley in July and her sister, Alice, who attends the same school, will go to CYO Camp at the close of the school year. Her grandfather, Erle J. Osborne, will accompany Alice to Santa Barbara for one week also. The other Cutter children, Brooke, Mimi, Coco and Robert Lloyd, will remain at home, enjoying their parents' new swimming pool.

The youngest member of the family, Robert Lloyd, will be baptized on June 13 at Mt. Carmel Church with Mrs. Christian Ibanez of Larkspur as godmother and Bernard Tombolin of Mill Valley, godfather.

A VISIT TO the Glowworm Caverns of New Zealand was one of the highlights of South Sea Islands tour taken recently by Mesdames Harry Johnson and Metta Meilink of San Rafael. They returned last week after spending six weeks on the Mariposa stopping at Hawaii, Tahiti, Fiji Islands, Bora Bora, Pago Pago, and Auckland and Rotoruru in New Zealand. In Rotoruru they discovered the Maori tribe still making use of a boiling pot in their cooking. The two adventurers also stopped in Sydney to visit with Mrs. E. C. Harnett for four days. Mrs. Harnett is the former Mrs. Donald Holcomb of San Rafael.

MR. AND MRS. Gordon H. Jones Jr. of Terra Linda will be among the guests at a cocktail party tonight given by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bibbero of San Francisco in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Roswell G. Ham, president emeritus of Mt. Holyoke College.

MR. AND MRS. Vern Collins and their son, Tracy, have arrived from their home in Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, to attend the wedding of their daughter, Verna, to Leland Chiaroni tomorrow. The nuptials will be held at the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

Verna has been honored at several showers. Mrs. Edgio Lambertti gave a shower at her home in San Rafael, Mrs. Robert Clark, and Mrs. Thomas King, a shower at the Clark home. Fellow employees of Macy's where Verna is manager of the Boy's Department, gave a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Julian Weiner in Mill Valley.

Mrs. Bert Oswald, Mrs. Richard Oswald and Mrs. Hal Sagar gave a shower at the Bert Oswald home on Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Chiaroni, the bridegroom's parents, entertained the Collins and the Clifford J. Chiaroni familes at dinner in their home on Wednesday.

Fabric Store Clerk Finds Silk Confuses Customers

By EUNICE FARMER

I work in a very fine fabric store and wish you would try to educate the public on a few of the popular silks. Most women are guided by the cost of the fabric and anything we tell them is ignored because they think we are trying to push the expensive fabrics. I am referring to "silk linen," and "silk shantung."

Trying To Please

Dear "Trying To Please":

The names of these silks often are confused, especially "silk linen." This seems to be a name for an Italian silk with a linen-like weave.

A fabric expert tells me there is no such fabric as silk linen.

Italian silk is a fine grade of silk, usually around $7 or more a yard. It has a rather firm and heavy weave and is especially suitable for suits, coats and dresses. It is usually advisable to underline this fabric. We recommend a rather firm, woven type underlining for the jacket (not sleeves), and a light-weight cotten and rayon type fabric for the dress. The underlining will keep the dress from wrinkling so badly.

Silk shantung is a much less expensive fabric and much lighter weight. It is used primarily for dresses. This fabric wrinkles very badly and has a tendency to pull away at the seams wherever there is the slightest amount of strain. It is imperative that you underline this fabric.

A few dollars extra spent on the fabric can bring years more wear and added pleasure.

A few weeks ago I asked you to send me your reasons for doing your own sewing. Thanks for the hundreds of letters you sent me. They were fabulous and most interesting.

Strangely enough, very few of you seem to sew in order to save money, although the majority of the replies mentioned getting much better fabrics for as little as one third the cost of ready-to-wear.

"Washing and ironing only finds the wash basket filled again. Cleaning just needs cleaning again. The only thing I do that is not undone the next day is my sewing, it's the most rewarding joy a woman can have."

"My husband considers me an engineering genius and can't imagine a woman being able to get all those little pieces to fit together so perfectly. He would love to brag about me but is sworn to secrecy because in our set women sew only if they have to save money."

"Whether it's a dress for me, a rag doll for my daughter or a shirt for my husband, I know there is something in it that money can't buy—love!"

Please keep these wonderful letters coming.

I just made a summer suit out of a linen-type material that is made of rayon, supposedly imported. It did work up very nicely, but I simply can't get the sharp crease mark out of the center of all the pieces of my garment that were cut on the folded edge of the material.

Mrs. P. C.

Dear Mrs. P. C.:

The crease that appears on the folded edge of most synthetic fabrics is almost impossible to remove (at least I've never found a way). Before you cut your garment, refold the fabric so that the folded edge of your pattern will appear on a new fold of your fabric. If this isn't possible because of the width of the fabric, try to have the crease appear near the side seam instead of right in the center.

Tuesday Reception To Fete Selma Hospital President

A champagne reception will be given on Tuesday for the Very Rev. John Crowley, president of the Good Samaritan Hospital in Selma, Ala., at the Dominican College dining hall, San Rafael.

The 6 to 8 p.m. reception is presented by Dr. John C. Bennett, Bay Area chairman for the week-long visit sponsored by the Selma Hospital Fund, and Judge Peter Allen Smith. Dr. Bennett said that the Good Samaritan Hospital, which receives no federal, state or local support, is operated by the Edmundite Fathers.

At the reception the Rev. Edward Dingberg will introduce the speaker. Judge Smith will be master of ceremonies and the Rev. Wesley C. Baker, who visited Selma, will also speak.

REV. JOHN CROWLEY

Marin County officials have been invited.

'Young Mother' To Be Program Topic Tuesday

"The Young Mother" is the title of a program to be presented to a joint meeting Tuesday in the Mill Valley Methodist Church fellowship hall of the Woman's Societies of Christian Service of the Tamalpais Valley and Mill Valley Methodist Churches.

Speaker will be Mrs. John Kinch, who will evaluate the place of the young mother in the church and woman's society today, discuss the attitudes of young women toward traditional reactions and present a program of action.

She will be assisted by Mrs. Marty Gustafson, who will bring a devotional message, and Mrs. Gale Mosier, who will assist with the discussion.

The day will begin with a business meeting at 11 a.m. followed by a noon luncheon and the program.

Luncheon hostesses are Mesdames Dale Danley, Ray Mefford and Helen Wood.

Legion Unit Will Install New Officers

MRS. LEON SIGARD

Mrs. Leon Sigard, wife of the retired postal supervisor in San Rafael, is the new president of the American Legion Auxiliary, San Anselmo Unit 179. She will be installed at 8:15 p.m. on Wednesday at the American Legion Log Cabin in San Anselmo.

Vivian Sigard has lived in Marin since 1923 and her husband served with the Postal Department for 41 years. A member of the organization since 1948, she has held the offices of first vice president, president, poppy chairman and publicity chairman.

The new president states the club's aim is to serve the community, state and nation with projects such as Poppy Day. They support child welfare, veteran's families, Girls' State School and rehabilitation.

Vivan was graduated from Immaculate Conception High School in San Francisco and also attended a business course at Heald's College there.

She is especially interested in doing needlepoint and intricate knitting work.

Other new officers to be installed with Mrs. Sigard are Mesdames Ralph Stephenson, vice president; Rufus Blitch, second vice president; Jack Garcie, Junior past president; Toby Pechner, recording secretary; Warren Greenwood, corresponding secretary; Fred Harrison, treasurer; Henry Sanborn, chaplain; Lester Wolf, historian; sergeant-at-arms, Jean Lestanguet; Louis Torresan, marshal; Oscar Liebeskind, musician; Walter Johnson, parliamentarian; and an executive committee of Mesdames Lestanguet, Torresan and Maude Franke.

Mrs. Wolf will be installing officer and Mrs. Lestanguet is refreshments chairman.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID GIOVANNOLI

Sharon Foster Wed To David Giovannoli

In an 11:30 a.m. double ring ceremony on May 22 in St. Raphael's Church, San Rafael, Sharon Darlene Foster became the bride of David Giovannoli.

The Rev. Richard Knapp officiated for the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Foster Jr. of San Rafael.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin full length gown accented with seed pearls. The skirt extended into a chapel length train of Chantilly lace.

Preceding the bride down the aisle as matron of honor was Mrs. Shirley Hernandez of San Rafael. She wore a gown of pink satin.

Richard Giovannoli of San Rafael served his brother as best man and ushering guests to their seats were Louis Bettencourt and Thomas Karle.

A reception followed the ceremony at the San Rafael Improvement Club.

The bride was graduated from San Rafael High School and is employed with the Davis Equipment Co. in San Rafael. Roberta Foster of San Rafael is her sister and she is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orve Van Winkle of Novato and Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Foster of San Jose.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Giovannoli of San Rafael, was graduated from Marin Catholic High School and attended the University of San Francisco. He is employed with General Sales Co. Dennis, Thomas and Teresa Giovannoli of San Rafael are also his brothers and sister. He is the grandson of Mrs. Mary Nannizzi of San Rafael and Mrs. Santina Giovannoli of Redwood City.

Following a wedding trip to Los Angeles, the couple will reside in San Rafael.

Motives Differ For Suntanning

Women seek suntan for motives, which differ according to age, John Ten Eyck, sociology student at Farleigh Dickinson University, found during a survey.

He said women from 20 to 40 years tend to value suntan for its beauty-giving properties. Women between 41 and 60 are more likely to seek the tan for health reasons. Of those interviewed, all ages, 54 per cent sustained his theory that a suntan is highly valued by contemporary American females.

Taxpayer Bloc Misstates Civic Center Bond Facts

EVERY COMMUNITY HAS its share of "aginners."

Marin is no exception. Whenever some forward-looking public proposition is advanced—such as the original idea for a County Government Center on a large piece of vacant land — opposition can be counted upon. You can even pretty well predict who will constitute opposition.

And in Marin County it has always been a safe bet that the "aginners" would be waving the banner of the "Marin County Taxpayers Assn."

IN SOME COUNTIES the community taxpayers association is a constructive force, bringing much beneficial information and advice to governmental authorities.

This has not, in the memory of man, been the case in Marin. The Marin County Taxpayers Assn. has a long, unbroken record of disseminating misinformation and advocating negativism.

NEXT TUESDAY, MARIN voters will go to the polls for a special election on a $7,750,000 bond issue to provide funds for constructing the next units of the Frank Lloyd Wright Civic Center.

As one might expect, the banner of the "Marin County Taxpayers Assn." has been raised in opposition to the bond issue.

"Present court facilities are very ample for another ten years or more," the taxpayers association glibly, but erroneously, states in opposing the bond proposal.

It is incredible that any person or group, informed in the slightest degree, could make such a completely false statement.

One can only deduce that the taxpayers association either is totally uninformed or wilfully intent on misleading.

Either conclusion would fit past performances by the Marin County Taxpayers Assn.

As a cynical reporter in the courthouse press room once observed, "Beware of propositions NOT OPPOSED by the Marin County Taxpayers Assn. If the taxpayers association is opposed, you can be quite sure that the measure they oppose is a good one."

WHO AND WHAT IS the Marin County Taxpayers Assn.?

At the moment and for the past few years, it has been pretty much a one-man affair.

Over the years, efforts by newsmen and county officials to determine accurately its membership have run into a curtain of secrecy.

One can only believe the association has so few paid-up members that it was embarrassed to make the records public.

A DECADE OR MORE AGO, the Board of Supervisors adopted some procedural rules to deal with the situation.

The supervisors required for a while that the spokesman for any citizen group appearing before the board would have to supply certain simple, factual information about the group he claimed to represent, including the number of members and proof of some sort that the spokesman did in fact have authority to speak for the group.

If such rules were observed today, they would have little effect on the Marin County Taxpayers Assn. Its self-appointed spokesmen just won't waste time appearing before the Board of Supervisors anymore. They merely issue public statements to the press, buy paid political advertisements and, occasionally, send out campaign literature via the mails.

WE STILL PRIDE OURSELVES on having a free country. And it still is permissible for anyone to take for himself any grandiose title he wishes (like President of the Marin Society of Voters and Property Owners) and thereafter go about making irresponsible public pronouncements.

But it is the duty of responsible citizens to keep themselves sufficiently well informed to recognize such pious nonsense for what it is — pure hogwash.

In a sense, then, Tuesday's special bond election will be a test of the strength of responsibility against irresponsibility.

If the bond issue carries, it will be because a sufficient number of responsible citizens perceived their duty and discharged it.

MEANWHILE, IT SHOULD be noted that Marin's new legitimate organization of property-owning citizens and taxpayers—the Marin Property Owners Assn., organized by a group of forward-looking, responsible community leaders—has endorsed the Civic Center bonds.

SMALL INVESTOR LEAVES BIG FORTUNE

A clerk whose top salary was $35 a week left an estate of $1,247,747 when he died recently at the age of 91.

When asked how he did it, his widow said simply: "He made it just by saving and investing."

Then she explained that her husband was "a very frugal man," who worked as a youth for a small salary at an insurance company in Hartford, Conn.

"We lived just like all Yankee people live. We lived on what we could afford, and then saved what was left over," the 84-year-old woman said.

With the small amount set aside, the thrifty man started buying stock in his company. At the time of his death he owned 4,000 shares worth $777,000 as well as several thousand in other companies.

Few persons display such restraint, astuteness and persistence in amassing an earthly fortune. But it is within the power of every individual to show the good sense and foresight to "lay up treasures in heaven," during his pilgrimage through life.

"Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither rust nor moth consumes, nor thieves break in and steal."
(Matthew 6:20)

Let the perspective of eternity permeate everything I think, say and do, O Jesus.

Civic Center Bonds Chance To Cut Tax

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Everywhere citizens of Marin County are concerned over our rapidly rising taxes. It isn't often that we have a chance to do something about it. The election on Tuesday, June 8, to vote on the Civic Center bonds gives us this chance.

As the number of citizens increases, so must more courts be provided by law. Our jail must be replaced. We are being offered a chance to do this and to complete our Civic Center and not raise taxes.

The Independent-Journal has for weeks listed town councils and organizations that endorse the bonds as the best method to say nothing of the backing of our Supervisors, our Auditor Controller and other officials in our County government.

But it isn't enough to endorse the bonds, two-thirds of those voting must vote yes. If we don't act on Tuesday . . . I hope we remember to cry in silence when more costly methods are chosen to do the same job.

Against Busing School Children

Editor, Independent-Journal:

'Tis spring, and the California bustard is once more with us. This strange bird can be recognized by his scrawny neck, draggled feathers, and mournful cry of "Now! Now!"

Bustards have been seen in Mill Valley in great numbers this May, and also swarmed through here last September. Their chief habit is to gather in flocks and attempt to forcibly transport the eggs, or young, of other birds from their home nests to the nests of birds of other species. Especially do they delight in trying to exchange light-colored eggs for dark-colored ones. They have been known to attempt this with great persistence over distances as great as eight or 10 miles.

This peculiar and annoying habit is known as "busing." Science has not yet determined the underlying motives of the bustard. It is interesting to note that the California bustard will very rarely attempt to transport its own young.

Bustards are expected to swarm into the Mill Valley area on the evening of June 7. Mill Valley board—er, bird watchers are invited to be on hand with binoculars to witness this strange phenomenon.

Yes Vote Supported On Lagunitas Taxes

Editor, Independent-Journal:

On June 8, voters in the Lagunitas School District will be asked to approve a 20-cent tax increase for two years. The proceeds of this tax are to be used to lease portable classrooms in order to prevent double sessions in the lower three grades.

When I first became involved in school affairs in 1957, it was because my two older children had been on double sessions and were until the fourth grade. Lagunitas had had double sessions for years and this continued until the new addition was completed in the fall of 1961. . . .

Now I have another child who will be on double session if the upcoming election is unsuccessful. I know first-hand, both as a parent and as a former trustee, what harm can come from double sessions. . . .

We are training our children to take their place in a society far more advanced than was even dreamed of when we went to school in the elementary grades. They need every bit of learning they can get. I do not want mine, or any, cheated of the basic groundwork taught in the first three grades, the foundation of all his later education. I urge all Lagunitas School District electors to vote "Yes" next Tuesday.

Salary Complaint Based On Sex Bias?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Having read the letter on the "unfairness" of County salaries from Stanley K. Gobbin (male), I (female) would like to comment.

He has taken two job categories and compared them on the basis of a difference in salaries without considering any of the other factors involved. Of course, he is blinded to other facts by his outrage that a mere female should be paid more than a male.

I do not think he is any more qualified than I am to decide how much each job should pay. But I wonder whether or not he would have raised the question had the Director of Social Services been a man instead of a woman.

'Yes' Vote Urged On Center Bonds

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The sole official argument against the court house bond issue proposes essentially that county taxpayers pay the entire cost of a $7,750,000 facility from tax monies to be raised in advance of construction in order to "save" interest on the bond issue.

As a Marin County resident and professional consultant in the field of public finance, I find that position naive at best. The real issue to confront electors on June 8 is: Should today's taxpayers bear the entire cost of a project which will serve future generations principally — or should the actual users of the project in this rapidly growing county be permitted to share the cost over a period of years?

Most property owners consider it good business to mortgage their home at rates ranging from 6 per cent, rather than pay "cash on the barrelhead" for a property of such long life expectancy. A properly planned and marketed Marin County general obligation bond issue, on the other hand, should command an interest rate of about 3 per cent, and even this small cost would be shared by future users of the facility. . . .

While some may prefer to encumber their own resources at privately obtainable interest rates to pay the whole bill before a shovel is turned, the citizen who would like to see the cost shared equitably at the low, tax-exempt interest rates which the county can command, will surely vote "yes" on the bonds.

LBJ Both Clarifies, Befuddles His Dominican Intervention Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson seems to have added both clarity and fog to his repeated explanations on the use of American troops in the Dominican Republic.

Johnson, sensitive to criticism, acknowledged at his news conference Tuesday his awareness of criticism for his handling of the Dominican problem. But he said he'd rather be criticized for his action than not to have acted.

THIS WAS one point of criticism: since this country is a member of the inter-American system — the Organization of American States — why didn't he tell the OAS he was going to use troops before he sent them in?

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy had said Johnson should have done it. Johnson seemed to answer the qeustion Tuesday but not quite directly.

Going over ground he had covered before, he said: The United States had discussed the Dominican problem with Latin-American ambassadors and the OAS a number of times between April 24, when the revolt began, and the night of April 28, when he decided to use troops.

But nowhere did he indicate that in any of these consultations the Latin Americans were told Johnson might, or would, use troops if he thought the situation was becoming unbearable.

Johnson explained the OAS was notified immediately after he went on television to announce the use of troops but by then it was public knowledge.

In Johnson's words Tuesday this apparently was the reason: "We did not want to announce they (the troops) were on their way until they had landed for obvious security reasons."

THEN THE fog set in.

He said the threat of a Communist takeover in the Dominican Republic while not over is less than it was and added: the Reds had been active in the revolt and "in a good many places they were in charge of it."

But in his explanation to the nation May 2 he was a lot stronger than that. Then he explained the revolution had been "taken over" by the Communists and it was in their hands.

Not long after that statement, when questions began to be raised about the actual power of the Dominican Reds, U.S. officials said they were no longer in control.

Perhaps more important, in the long view, was another point on which Johnson seemed vaguer Tuesday than before.

This was when he was asked if he had laid down a "new Johnson doctrine" under which American troops would be used to prevent establishment of a Communist government anywhere in the Western Hemisphere.

He said "no" and pointed out that President John F. Kennedy, the Latin-American nations and he himself had all declared the principles of communism are incompatible with the principles of the inter-American system.

BUT THIS was repeating what he had said before and did not specifically answer the question: Would U.S. troops be used anywhere in this hemisphere to prevent Red seizure of power?

He seemed closer to answering it May 2 when he said: "We will defend our nation against all those who seek to destroy not only the United States but every free country in this hemisphere."

In this case there's an obvious reason for the vagueness: the Latin Americans don't take kindly to American intervention in their business anywhere.

By not saying the United States would intervene, he let the OAS face this: Will it set up a stand-by or permanent military force which can move in speedily to block a Communist threat in the hemisphere, thus making American intervention unnecessary?

The OAS is not a speedy outfit. Even if the United States thought fast inter-American action against a Communist threat was necessary, the OAS might get lost in arguments and delays.

BARKER ON CHINA

New Territories Show Rural Scene

By GEORGE BARKER

When people think of Hong Kong, they usually think of the island with its teeming city of Victoria or of the equally bustling City of Kowloon just across the Harbor. This is where the excitement, the fascinating shops, the myriad bargains, the sleepless, neon, sin-tainted Chinese city life are manifest.

THERE IS ANOTHER Hong Kong, however. It is a place of sleepy villages and small farms that time seems to have passed by. It is a bit of rural China without the regimentation and exhortation of the Reds. This is Hong Kong's New Territories, so named because they were not pried away from China by England until 1898 when the crumbling Ching Dynasty ceded them under terms of a 99-year lease.

The New Territories consist of 335 square miles of mainland between Kowloon and the border of Red China and include 75 mostly very, very tiny islands. A large part is made up of rolling hills which were denuded for firewood during the Japanese occupation, but in the valleys and around the perimeter are the farms and sleepy, 19th Century Chinese villages.

FANLING IS ONE of these villages only 17 miles and half a century away from Kowloon. It is only a hop across a stream from Red China and requires a special police permit to enter the border zone. Hence, I have never been to Fanling but my Chinese former wife grew up on a farm near there and in her mind's eye it was idyllic.

It was small, people were all friends and helped one another. Many people, including the woman who raised her, had been to the city only once. In 1963 she took the woman, now elderly, to the big cities once more for an overnight visit. The old lady couldn't wait to get back to her cows and chickens. She was up at dawn, ready to go.

THEY ARE NOT a simple people, but they prefer the simple, peasant life. The old lady mentioned above has never tasted beef because she feels that her cattle (three water buffalo) work hard and are her friends. In the winter when the grass is sparse, she cooks sweet potatoes for them on her wood-burning stone stove. She lives in a one-story stone house and her daughter-in-law and grandchildren have a house near by. As was the custom of the old-time Cantonese, her husband lived and worked abroad and sent remittances home with which she bought a little more land, then returned home in his old age. Now her son is a cook in Birmingham, England.

They, like many villagers in China, are largely self-subsistent, growing the things they require to live. Electricity has made life a bit more modern, but their daily routine revolves around the habits of their farm animals. To bed by nine and up with the dawn.

THERE ARE, of course the farm smells and the flies. But there are also the open space, the grassy hills and verdant fields, the fresh food and the fine feeling of wresting a living from one's own plot of land. This last is perhaps the most important, and is the missing ingredient in China today.

United Nations Began As World Hope 20 Years Ago

Here Is Story Behind Signing Of Its Charter

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Twenty years after the signing of the United Nations charter, San Francisco will be the site of ceremonies June 24, 25 and 26 marking the anniversary. U.N. Secretary General Thant and U.N. President Alex Quaison-Sackey will be on hand as will President Johnson for a speech June 26, actual date of the signing. Following is the story behind the charter's signing 20 years ago.)

By RODNEY GUILFOIL

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — "Oh, what a great day this can be in history!"

With those words, broadcast from the White House, President Harry Truman provoked a storm of applause from a glittering assembly of delegates representing 50 nations of the free world.

He spoke them on June 26, 1945. The occasion was the final session of the United Nations Conference on International Organization (UNCIO). The scene was the floodlighted war Memorial Opera House in San Francisco.

"There is a time for making plans—and there is a time for action," said Truman. "The time for action is here now."

"Let us, therefore, each in his own nation and according to its own way, seek immediate approval of this charter — and make it a living thing."

The charter was the constitution of a world organization to maintain peace and security and to advance the political, cultural and economic welfare of all men.

Nine weeks before, on April 25, leaders of free nations — many of them still locked in a life and death struggle against tyranny—gathered in the same Opera House for the opening of UNCIO. Fifteen hundred newsmen from all over the world were on hand.

On that day, the RAF bombed Hitler's chalet near Berchtesgaden; Russian forces completed the encirclement of Berlin; U.S. Third Army tanks punched to within 15 miles of the German-Austrian border and American and French forces raced unchecked across south Germany.

The conference opened on a showery day — under the shadow of a tragedy that had befallen the United States. Thirteen days earlier, death had taken President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, and his successor was an unknown quantity in a grave crisis facing a nation at war in Europe and in Asia.

The session ended with an announcement from a handsome and slender young man that the first business plenary session would be held the following day. He was the conference's secretary-general — Alger Hiss.

The Soviet Union had surprised many in the free world by its heroic struggle against the Nazi war machine. The USSR representative, Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov, was applauded whenever he appeared in public. But that was at the beginning.

The next day, Molotov showed the signs of intransigency that were to mark Soviet policy during the postwar era. He objected to the selection of U.S. Secretary of State Edward Stettinius as chairman of the steering committee. He maintained that since four nations were the sponsoring powers, their representatives should act together with equal powers as joint chairmen.

Mexico's Ezequiel Padilla suggested the conference follow the usual diplomatic procedure and courtesy and name Stettinius as chairman. Molotov replied he hoped no one was trying to give him lessons in diplomatic procedure. And as for courtesy, he said, UNCIO was not a tea party.

England's Anthony Eden climaxed speeches by the Big Four with a brief and dramatic oration. He asked the delegates to complete their work in four weeks' time.

With his hands tightly gripping the edge of the speaker's stand, he said: "It is no exaggeration to say that the work on which we are making a start may be the world's last chance."

As it turned out, it took nine weeks to do the job.

The Russians exasperated their fellow delegates beyond endurance. It appeared they could take no action—no matter how trivial it seemed — without first clearing it with Moscow.

Then there was the row over the veto. Australia, New Zealand and a number of Latin American countries, among others, objected strenuously to it. But Sen. Tom Connally warned the delegates the United States Senate would never approve the charter unless it included the veto for the major powers. At that time, no one foresaw that it would eventually become the Soviet Union's chief diplomatic weapon.

Latin American delegates wanted to make sure that the U.N. charter would not destroy the inter-American security system when the charter acknowledged the existence of regional peace-keeping arrangements consistent with the purposes of the U.N.

One brief interruption came on May 8. The delegates observed one minute of silence at 11 a.m. to mark the end of the bloodiest war in European history. There was no great celebration perhaps because of President Truman's words from the White House:

"Our victory is but half-won. The West is free, but the East is still in bondage to the treacherous tyranny of the Japanese."

Every delegation felt obliged to give at least one all-out reception for other delegations and important visitors. Obtaining food and drink for these functions became a matter of logistics in a wartime economy.

Somehow, with patience and hard work and compromises, the charter got drafted.

The actual signing, on June 26 got under way at noon in the auditorium of the Veterans' Building next to the Opera House. China had the honor of signing first because it was the first nation to be drawn into war with the Axis nations. Other countries followed in alphabetical order.

And on a sunny afternoon, delegates to the UNCIO gathered for the last time.

The list of speakers was imposing. It included Stettinius; China's Wellington Koo; Russia's A. A. Gromyko; the United Kingdom's Earl of Halifax; France's Joseph Paul-Boncour; Brazil's Pedro Leao Velloso; Czechoslovakia's Jan Masaryk; Mexico's Ezequiel Padilla; Saudi Arabia's Faisal; and South Africa's Jan Christian Smuts.

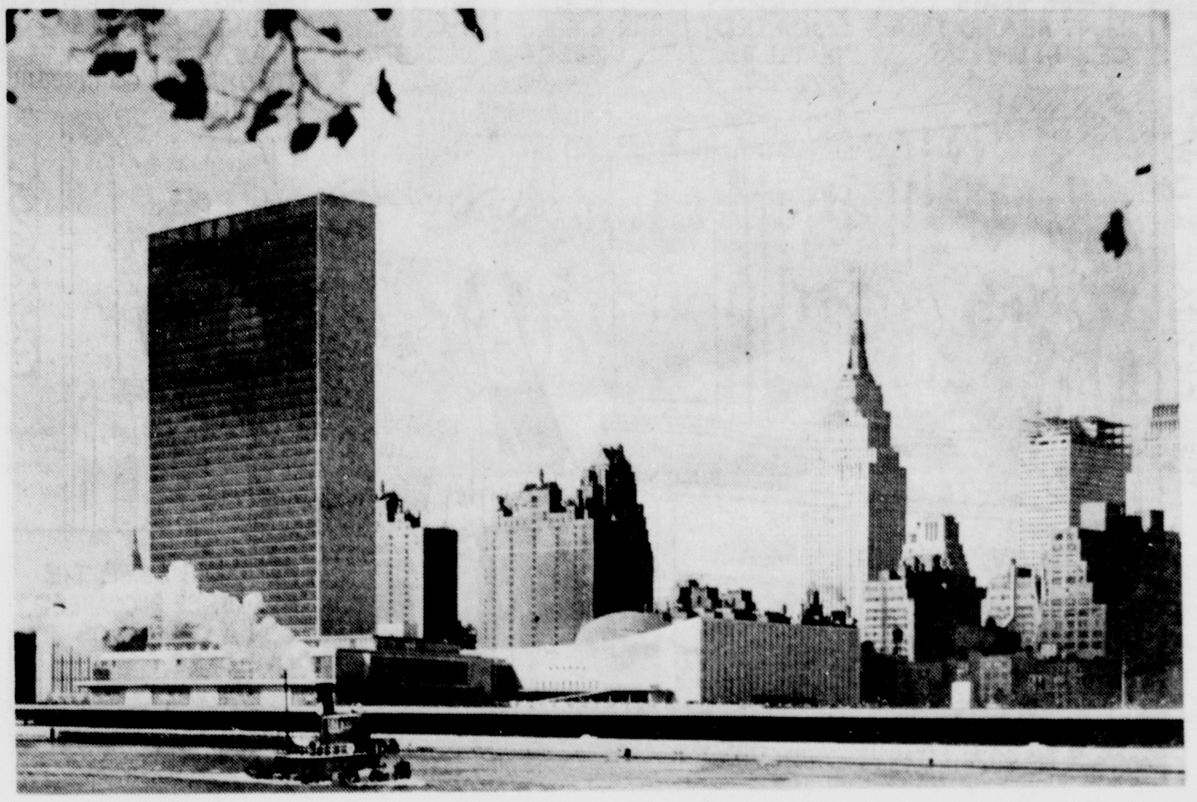
And finally President Truman:

"Oh, what a great day this can be in history."

On the table beside him lay the U.N. charter in its blue binding with golden lettering. It was Truman's first major address on international affairs since taking office slightly more than two months before. It was broadcast to the world.

"Upon all of us, in all our countries, is now laid the duty of transforming into action these words which you have written," he said.

". . . Let us not fail to grasp this supreme chance to establish a world wide rule of reason — to create an enduring peace under the guidance of God."



U.N. BUILDING—The United Nations was begun 20 years ago in San Francisco with the signing of the U.N. Charter on June 26, 1945, and now occupies this building on the East River in New York City. Ceremonies marking the anniversary are to be held in San Francisco June 24, 25, 26.

GOP Caucus Against Unruh Tax Bill

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The 31-member Republican caucus in the State Assembly — with more than enough votes to defeat any tax or budget legislation requiring a two-thirds vote —has voted unanimously to oppose the $1.1 billion tax reform-increase bill sponsored by Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh.

The vote came in the caucus with 27 members present and was reported by Assemblyman Robert S. Stevens, R-Los Angeles, chairman of the Republican tax study committee.

The big tax bill, authored by Unruh and Assemblyman Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, would boost state taxes by $1.1 billion and return about $730 million to local government. Several features of the bill, including proposals to increase the bank and corporation franchise taxes and eliminate taxes on business inventories and household goods, would require a two-thirds, or 54-member, vote in the assembly.

"The net tax increase to California taxpayers would be more than $300 million, starting in 1966," the GOP caucus statement said. "In the light of Governor Brown's recent disclosure of 'instant solvency' and the lack of any need for substantial tax increases at this legislative session, Republicans cannot support this new and very large tax load."

Monagan said the 31 Republicans in the Assembly are not legally bound to follow the caucus position but he believed the position of the GOP's would be unanimous if the Unruh-Petris proposal came to a vote.

The action by the Republican causus put it in practically the same position as Sen. Hugh M. Burns, D-Fresno, Senate president pro tempore. Burns said recently he would not vote for any drastic tax reforms this session and felt only the actual revenue needed for the next year, if any, should be provided with new or higher taxes.

Governor Brown earlier had sponsored bills to increase taxes by $325 million a year. However, in late May, Brown said an upturn in state revenue removed the need for the full program and the state could balance the next two budgets with only a five-cent increase in the cigarette tax.

This disclosure, made only a few hours before the Unruh-Petris bill had its first public hearing, pulled the props out from under the assemblymen's bill.

The GOP caucus said it opposed the Unruh-Petris bill for the following reasons:

1. The net tax increase would be more than $300 million and might not be needed.

2. Reforms in the bill are too complicated to be supported at present, without more study. In addition, the caucus said the reforms were the product of the employed staff of the revenue and taxation committee and not of public hearings and studies by the committee itself.

3. At two public hearings the bill had, only four hours were spent and few witnesses appeared, indicating there had been no opportunity to study it.

4. Too many questions raised by the bill remain unanswered: Why should the state double income taxese and offset the federal tax cut? Isn't the proposed property transfer tax just another property tax?

5. The measure includes a withholding of personal income tax. The caucus said 14 of the 26 states which enacted withholding taxes raised taxes following such enactment, while only two of six states without withholding have increased income taxes within the past 18 years.

"No one has ever found a better method of lightening the tax load on taxpayers than the simple one of reduction of expenditures," the statement said.

America, Japan Are Faced With 'Fish' War

By SPENCER DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — When an estimated 27 million red sockeye salmon make their run to the high seas from Alaska's Bristol Bay in early June, they will bring a test of will between Japan and the United States.

The confrontation could easily bring a "fish war" and economic sanctions that would affect far more than the $80-100 million Bristol Bay fishery.

A fleet of 300 fishing vessels moved out of their Japanese home ports May 21-22 and headed toward the Bering Sea.

Their timetable called for taking positions of readiness between June 1 and 6 with hundreds of miles of high seas nets —some of them ten miles long. The nets are strung along an invisible "abstention line."

The line is fixed at the meridian 175 Degrees West Longitude. It is in this vicinity that Bristol Bay salmon come to mix with Asian red salmon, spawned in Siberia.

"Unfortunately, they do not come with red, white and blue stripes to distinguish them from the Asian salmon," pointed out one Japanese legal representative.

Since 1883, American fishermen have been fishing the Bristol Bay area of the North Pacific, and there they established the greatest red salmon fishery in the world.

During the development of the fishery, U. S. scientists and fishermen realized the need for following strict conservation practices. Bristol Bay salmon fishermen have been subject to extremely strict conservation regulations, aimed at allowing the escapement of salmon into streams to assure the propagation of more salmon stock. In recent years, the Bristol Bay fishermen have been permitted to fish only a few hours each week during the short legal season.

American fishermen have been prohibited by law from salmon fishing on the high seas with nets. This is considered wasteful and detrimental to the conservation of salmon resources.

In testimony before a Senate Commerce Committee, Alaska's Governor William A. Egan called the Japanese high seas fishery "a shameful biological waste." He said that in 1964 the Japanese took 1.8 million immature Bristol Bay red salmon averaging about 3.8 pounds each. If these fish had been permitted to return to Bristol Bay as prime adult fish one year later, their average weight would have been more than 5.5 pounds each.

"Harvesting prior to maximum yield violates every concept of fishery conservation," the governor said. "It cannot be condoned."

Legislation now in Congress provides that whenever the Secretary of Interior determines that fishing vessels of a foreign country are operated to the detriment of the domestic fishery programs, the President may increase duties up to 50 per cent of the July 1, 1934 level on any fishery product in any form from the offending country.

This legislation, approved by the Senate but still to be considered in the House, brought sharp protests from Japan. The Japan Fisheries Association called it economic sanctions designed to exclude Japan from fishing salmon resources of the high seas in areas where such fishing is regulated by international agreement. In 1951 the North Pacific Fisheries Convention established the 175 Degrees West Longitude abstention line.

At that time, U. S. scientists and fishermen alike did not believe the Bristol Bay salmon moved that far into the high seas. Now it is realized that they do and strong efforts are being made to move the line 10 degrees closer to the Asian mainland.

In the period immediately ahead, an American Congress of Fishermen, newly organized, is threatening a boycott of Japanese ships and goods if there is indiscriminate netting of Bristol Bay salmon.

Both Japanese and American officials may negotiate a new convention similar to the fur seal treaty in the North Pacific. It prohibits high seas fishing for fur seals and allocates a fair share of the valuable pelts to the nations agreeing to the treaty. Some such arrangement will have to be reached on salmon allocation, if an economic war is to be avoided.

Astronaut Cavorts In Space

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Like some modern-day Huckleberry Finn, leaving the safety of his raft for a refreshing dip in the Mississippi, an American astronaut this week cavorted in space attached to his space vehicle by a golden nylon cord.

Although the astronaut, Maj. Edward H. White said, "this is fun," his antics actually were a serious giant step forward toward a projected landing of an American on the moon this decade.

White's use of a jet oxygen gun, to maneuver around made him the first man in history to propel himself in space. His 20 minute walk in the void surpassed by 10 minutes the record set by his Soviet counterpart, Lt. Col. Alexei Leonov.

The space walk started over the Pacific as the capsule soared toward the California coast at a speed of 17,500 miles an hour. It ended east of the Dominican Republic, the entire United States having been crossed during the historic space first.

Although White's laughter could be heard over the space-to-ground communications system, the feat was no laughing matter.

A puncture in his $26,000 pressurized suit would have exposed him to a temperature of 250 degrees above zero where the sun struck him and to temperatures of 150 degrees below zero where his body was in the shade.

If by some bizarre mischance his nlyon "umbilical" cord had snapped, he could have drifted into space to become an eternal human satellite.

Once back in the safety of his Gemini-4 space capsule, White joined his fellow astronaut Maj. McDivitt in the completion of experiments designed to unlock the mysteries of space travel.

The planned four-day mission started Thursday and will end Monday afternoon in the Atlantic several miles east of Cape Kennedy.

By today, Gemini-4 had already broken two records set by previous U.S. manned space flights and one held by the Russians. At that time space agency scientists could see no reason why the entire 4-day space flight could not be completed as originally scheduled.

Around The World Around The Clock

Saigon—With the approach of the rainy season the Communist Viet Cong unleashed a series of expected attacks against South Viet Nam forces. Government forces suffered as many as 1,000 casualties.

Washington—President Johnson asked Congress to enact legislation eliminating silver in dimes and quarters and replace it with copper and cupro-nickel.

Santo Domingo — Inter-American investigators sent to the trouble-ridden Dominican Republic by the Organization of American States continued efforts to arrange meetings with rival factions in the search for a peace-making formula. Yesterday high-explosive fire occurred in an unexplained renewal of heavy attack on a rebel-held area.

Bogalusa, La. — One Negro deputy sheriff was killed and another wounded in a night ambush attack Wednesday. A white man charged with the slaying was arrested in nearby Tylertown, Miss.

Washington—President Johnson asked Congress to eliminate all silver from dimes and quarters, and cut the silver content of half-dollars from 90 per cent to 40 per cent.

Today is Saturday, June 5, the 156th day of 1965 with 209 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter. The morning star is Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Mars.

Nationalist China's Madame Chiang Kai-shek was born on this day in 1897.

On this day in history:

In 1933, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed a bill abolishing the gold standard.

In 1950, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled unanimously that segregation practices in Southern railroad dining cars and in two Southern universities were invalid.

In 1962, an Air France 707 jet airliner crashed in Paris, killing 130 persons, including 121 from Atlanta, Ga., on a European art study trip.

In 1963, British War Secretary John Profumo resigned after admitting he had lied to Parliament in denying "impropriety" with British call girl Christine Keeler.

A thought for the day: Greek painter Zeuxis said: "Criticism comes easier than craftsmanship."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

You Can't Win At Bridge By Playing 'Scared Cards'

A certain kind of bridge player is a sure loser because he plays "scared cards."

He ducks his responsibilities in the bidding and in the play, trying to avoid criticism. Sometimes he does both on the same hand.

East	South	West	North
1 ♣	1 ♠	2 ♣	3 ♠
4 ♣	4 ♠	All Pass

Opening lead — ♣ 2

When this hand was played, East should have bid five clubs instead of selling out to four spades. This couldn't be expensive, and East had little reason to expect that he could defeat four spades.

FIVE CLUBS

At five clubs, East would lose a spade, a heart, and three diamonds.

The penalty would be only 500 points, less 100 for honors. This is a small price to pay to stop a 700-point rubber.

A bid of five clubs has something else to recommend it. South or North may push on to five spades, and then they may well be overboard.

MISPLAYED

After misbidding East misplayed. He won the first trick with the king of clubs and continued with the ace. South ruffed and led a trump to force out the ace.

Declarer eventually took two heart finesses, losing one trump, one heart, and one club.

The bidding and the nature of the opening lead made it clear that West had four clubs, which left South with a singleton. Leading a second club turned control over to South.

MUST SWITCH

East must switch to the king of hearts at the second trick. This defeats the contract if West has the ace of hearts, since the defenders take two top hearts and then East ruffs a heart.

As the cards lie, the switch is equally effective. South takes the ace of hearts and leads a trump, but West steps up with the ace of trumps to cash the queen of hearts and give East a heart ruff.

If West has neither the ace nor the queen of hearts, East's switch will not work, but neither will anything else.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one club, and the next player passes.

You hold:

♠ A 7
♡ Q 9 6
◇ 10 9 5 3
♣ 8 6 5 2

What do you say?

Answer: Bid two clubs.

You should respond one diamond if your four cards were headed by something respectable, but there is very little point in showing a suit that you cannot stop for notrump purposes when some other bid fully describes your hand.

Kettenhofen Asks County Control Of Senior Plans

Marin County Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen wants the county to be the controlling agency for all senior citizen programs in Marin, including those within cities.

San Rafael and Novato now operate senior citizen programs.

Kettenhofen suggests that the county operate the programs and the facilities, in much the same way that the county library is set up through branch offices.

The cities, in this case, would support the county, Kettenhofen said.

He made his suggestion in a letter to the board of supervisors.

Kettenhofen also urged that the lease of a site on Civic Center property to the senior citizens coordinating council be honored. The lease could be terminated if no construction is started by next spring.

Forestry officials credit the bluejay with planting the seeds of many trees.

Four Hondurans Visit In Novato

A four-member delegation of members of the British Honduran National Assembly visited Novato Thursday on a State Department-sponsored tour.

The guests toured the Novato Sanitary District sewage treatment plant, went to see Stafford Dam, had lunch with local officials.

The visitors were representatives Allan Arthurs, Fred Hunter, Santiago Perdomo and Louis Sylvestre of the British Honduran Peoples United Party and Sen. James Meighan of the same political party.

Church Asks Abandonment Of Road Area

A proposal to abandon a portion of Oakdale Avenue at its junction with West Blithedale Avenue to provide a better site location for Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church will be discussed by the Mill Valley City Council at its 8 o'clock meeting tonight.

The planning commission has recommended abandonment by 5-1 vote.

A hearing will be held to introduce an ordinance for annexation of 206 acres of the north ridge. The annexation, which would extend Mill Valley northward to the boundaries of Larkspur and Corte Madera, has been approved by the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission. No majority protest by owners has been made to date.

The council will discuss selection of an architect for the public safety building proposed to be built on Camino Alto near East Blithedale Avenue, will review pending state legislation, and will consider working drawings for first phase improvement of Old Mill Park.

Three Drunken Drivers Fined

Kenton Norman Smith, 44, of Sonoma, was fined $193 yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving. He was arrested by California Highway Patrol last May 6 on Highway 101.

Rudy Washburn, 54, Oakland, was fined $249. He also was arrested on Highway 101 by the patrol, on June 1, for drunken driving.

Christopher William Lang, 23, of Ross, was fined $166 for drunken driving on May 23. He was arrested by San Rafael police.

New Priests Will Visit Marin Pulpits

A native of St. Raphael's parish and two young men who have served as deacons for the church in San Rafael were to be ordained to the priesthood in special rites in Mission Dolores Basilica, San Francisco.

Rev. Louis Joseph Robello, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Robello of 20 Bungalow Avenue, San Rafael, will offer his first Mass at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow in St. Raphael's Church, and will be the guest of a parish reception in the St. Raphael's School auditorium from noon to 3 p.m.

Assisting Father Robello in his first Mass will be Rev. Thomas I. Kennedy, administrator of St. Raphael's, as archpriest; former St. Raphael's priest Cornelius Burns as deacon; St. Raphael's assistant pastor Miles O'Brien Riley as sub - deacon, and Rev. John Patroni, former assistant pastor at St. Raphael's, as preacher.

Six of Father Robello's cousins will serve as ushers; two others will serve at the altar as acolytes.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Andrews, working with the parish council, are in charge of the reception.

Another priest ordained today will say his first mass at 4 p.m. tomorrow in St. Patrick's Church, Larkspur. He is Rev. Alan Armstrong, former deacon at St. Raphael's and a graduate of Larkspur - Corte Madera schools, Tam High School and College of Marin.

Rev. Armstrong is the son of Mrs. Dorothy and the late Dr. Clarence Armstrong, 84 Madrone Avenue, Larkspur.

Pastor James J. Healy will be his assistant priest; Rev. Charles Quinn, deacon; Rev. Patrick Kerrigan, sub-deacon, and Rev. John Cunningham will preach the sermon.

The new priest will also say the 9:15 a.m. Mass in St. Raphael's on Sunday, June 13.

Also scheduled to say Mass, at 10:30 a.m. June 13, is another former deacon, Rev. Michael Sullivan. When he sings his first Solom Mass at 12:15 p.m. tomorrow in St. Monica's Church, San Francisco, Father Edward J. Dingberg, pastor of St. Isabella's Church, Terra Linda, will preach the sermon. Msgr. Clement McKenna, director of St. Vincent's School for Boys, will be the archpriest.

Mills Author Explores Unbeliefs

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

There are five major causes of unbelief.

So says a noted religious sociologist, Dr. George Hedley. Dr. Hedley is chaplain and professor of sociology at Mills College, Oakland.

His anatomy of skepticism was published by Mills College this month, along with other papers, in a book entitled, "Religion and the Campus."

Dr. Hedley's forthright observations are likely to irritate believers and unbelievers alike. But they are a provocative contribution to the continuing debate on how to present the Christian gospel to modern man.

One major barrier to belief among educated people, says Dr. Hedley, is the undeniable fact that "religion often has been associated, and often still is associated, with ignorance, naivete and even sheer stupidity."

He says that Protestant fundamentalism, in its insistence that the words of the Bible are unerring and infallible, has created a widespread impression that religious faith is based on "willful irrationality."

Dr. Hedley readily concedes the skeptic's contention that it's utterly absurd for fundamentalists to believe that the world was created in six days, or to read as literal history other Biblical passages of a mythical, poetic or allegorical nature.

But it is equally absurd, he said, for non - believers to act as though fundamentalism were "the only expression of religion available to man."

And that brings him to a second source of disbelief: "The plain and often willful ignorance" of many who proclaim themselves agnostics without bothering to investigate bona-fide religion.

"I would describe it, rather gently, as the lack of a real scientific curiosity," he says. "And when I get my dander up, I'm likely to identify it as arrogant obscurantism.

"By what right does anyone presume to judge religion when he has refused to examine not only the aberrant fringes of religious belief, but also the learning and thinking of spokesof the main stream? We willingly have become adult, all of us, as to literature and science and philosophy ... how then may we think to justify our estimating of religion only by our sad childhood experiences in Sunday school?"

Finally, there is "the biggest and strongest" source of disbelief — the ancient problem of evil. If a loving and almighty God is in charge of this universe, why does He permit wars, earthquakes, floods, deformed babies, and cancer?

Dr. Hedley acknowledges that believers have no easy answer to this question.

"Not to deny a difficult world, not to think to explain it, but to live courageously and faithfully within it, is the part which the believer chooses for himself." He can't prove that he's right in his deep conviction that behind all of the baffling and contradictory phenomena of life there is infinite love and mercy. But "it happens that the nonbeliever can't manage any absolute proving either."

"Ultimately, there are no genuine atheists and no guaranteed theists, but only agnostics. No one of us knows, in laboratory terms, either whether God exists or whether decent living is worthwhile. Whether we answer 'yes' or 'no' to these questions, we do so on the basis of faith and not of demonstration ... what we call unbelief is just as much a matter of faith as is the most explicit religious orthodoxy."

In the words of the great 17th century French scientist-philosopher Blaise Pascal, "you must water ... it is not optional, you are embarked in the business." The only question is whether you'll bet your life on God, or against him.

Rodef Sholom Confirmation Rite Tomorrow

The Jewish festival of Shavuos or "The Feast of Weeks" will be celebrated in Marin County temples and Jewish homes beginning at sundown today.

Twenty-three young students will be confirmed in a ceremony at 10 a.m. tomorrow in Congregation Rodef Sholom, with Rabbi Morton Hoffman presiding and a full choir performing special music.

Families of the young confirmands will attend a special dinner at the temple this evening.

Congregation Kol Shofar will not have a confirmation ceremony tomorrow, but will hold a special Shavuos service at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary of the Marin Jewish Community Center, marking the end of the church school year. On (June 18) Bar Mitzvah service will be held for one girl of the congregation, Valerie Stoll, according to Rabbi Morris Schussheim.

Shavuos bears a spiritual similarity to the Christian holiday of Pentecost, and falls at the same time on the calendar, Rabbi Schussheim noted. Pentecost commemorates the descent of the Holy Spirit upon Christ's disciples 50 days after Easter; Shavuos recalls the seventh week of the Exodus from Egypt.

One of the most spiritually significant holidays of the Jewish calendar, Shavuos traditionally commemorates the giving of the Ten Commandments to Moses on Mount Sinai seven weeks after the Exodus from Egypt. The festival also has agricultural associations, for at this time, seven weeks after the spring wheat and barley planting in Israel, the first fruits of this planting were harvested.

During this holiday, which was one of the three pilgrimage festivals of the Jewish year, the Jews of Biblical days actually brought their first ripened grain to the temple at Jerusalem for sacrificial offering. The symbolism remains even in this modern age, particularly in Reform and Conservative congregations, where, on this day, the youth who have completed their formal religious education stand on the altars of the temples and seek confirmation in their faith. They represent the first harvest of an educational seed planted 10 years earlier.

Rev. King To Speak

Clerical Comment Varies On Film Of Christs Life

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

To convey his message, Jesus Christ couched it both in earthly events and subtle allusions and parables. Throughout His outward activity ran that strange, underlying thread of deeper meanings.

A new telling of the story now is circulating across the country in the form of a motion picture, "The Greatest Story Ever Told," and reaction to it has come from various religious analysts.

Generally they say it does a fine job of portraying the concrete events.

But some say it falls short in registering those intangible, more profound qualities of meaning behind the physical occurrences.

To do this, they concede, has been an immemorial challenge.

Over the centuries, every means of human communication has been employed in the effort to do it—music, pictures, poetry, allegory, logic, plays, pageantry, sermons and symbols.

In the latest Hollywood effort, a veteran director, George Stevens, has harnessed the techniques of the giant screen with sound to recount with exacting care the Gospel events.

But do the impressive and historically apt sights and sounds capture the basic content?

"Without doubt, the greatest story ever told," says the interdenominational Christian Herald, but adds: "This is not the full Gospel"—and probably no film treatment of "Christ's life can be adequate."

In the Catholic World, the Rev. Edward H. Peters says: "The Christ we meet is in general the one which Christianity has presented to the world. But Biblicists may and do question if it is possible to compose a history of our Lord's life in the concrete terms that a film demands."

Like most regular movie critics, the religious commentators praise Stevens' craftsmanship, sensitivity and his restraint in avoiding the sensationalism of some Biblical spectaculars.

They also applaud the performance by Swedish actor Max von Sydow in the role of Jesus. But some question the over-all effect.

In The Episcopalian, the Rev. Malcolm Boyd says that although the film is "often breathtaking in its sheer visual scope" and "almost classic beauty," it remains "essentially pop religion," reflecting "little contact between such film craftsmen and theologians" in the church.

The difficulty, he says, is in depicting Jesus both as "being the Christ, as well as the historical Jesus," which demands intuitive supersensible qualities, perhaps better suggested by long silences, but "the sound keeps intruding.

"God permits men to see with the eyes of faith; but the movie producer leaves nothing to such eyes."

The movie runs four hours, with intermission, and depicts the story from Jesus' birth in a stable through His ministry, crucifixion and resurrection.

What bothered some religious observers is the appearance of numerous familiar Hollywood stars in bit roles, such as John Wayne as the Roman centurion and Carol Baker as Veronica, who wipes Jesus' face on the way to Calvary.

Bible Lesson On Healing Is Slated

The healing of the "man which was taken with a palsy" told by Luke will be featured in the Bible lesson to be read at Christian Science services Sunday in Marin County.

Selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include the following: "Immortal Mind is the only cause; therefore disease is neither a cause nor an effect. Mind in every case is the eternal God, good. Sin, disease, and death have no foundations in Truth".

Speakers To Outline Church, CORE Stands

Church intergroup activities and the philosophy of the Congress of Racial Equality will be discussed by three speakers in a special program at 8 p.m. Monday in the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour, Mill Valley.

The meeting will be public, according to Rev. D. Murray Hammond, dean of the Marin Episcopal Convocation and spokesman for the Deanery's Intergroup Relations Committee.

Speakers will be Rev. Cornelius C. Tarplee, executive vouncil member of the Episcopal Church of the United States and of the church's department of Christian social relations; and brothers Neil and Hal Abercrombie, both Marin County adult probation officers and both active CORE members.

Rev. Tarplee is touring the California Diocese to discuss local and national intergroup church activities with clergy and laymen. In recent years he has been working closely with churches in 14 Southern states.

The Abercrombies will discuss "The Philosophy of Demonstrations," telling why and how they are held. A question and answer period will follow.

World-Wide Pentacostal Message Due

The Pentecost Message of the World Council of Churches will be read from many Marin County pulpits tomorrow, stressing the theme, "You Will Receive Power."

Pentecost, or Whitsunday, recalls the visitation of the Holy Spirit upon Christ's disciples, 50 days after Easter.

In a joint message to the 214 Protestant, Anglican and Eastern Orthodox churches numbered among the members of the World Council of Churches, the council's six presidents state that present-day Christians are more like First Century worshippers than those of the 19th Century because "very many Christians today live scattered in small groups, minorities without political power ... but God has never cancelled the promise or withdrawn the gift He gave at Pentecost."

Liberation from the limitations of earthly power reopens the church to the power given at Pentecost, the religious leaders declare ... "the power to believe and to help others believe, power to love to the limit, power to make peace ...."

Fellowship Tour Debut Is Tuesday

"Fellowship of the Faiths," a series of public tours to Marin County houses of worship, will begin at 1 p.m. Tuesday with a visit to Congregation Rodef Sholom, 170 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael.

The tour series is sponsored by the Marin Young Women's Christian Assn. Reservations should be made at the YWCA office, 216 Greenfield Avenue, San Anselmo, by Monday noon. Admission is free, with a silver offering toward refreshments.

At Tuesday's debut of the tour series, participants will meet Rabbi Morton Hoffman, who will explain meanings of sacred objects in the temple's sanctuary and foyer, and will host a question and answer period. Women of the Sisterhood of Rodelf Sholom will provide refreshments derived from Jewish cuisine, after the tour.

The temple, completed in 1962, that year was honored as one of the 15 architecturally outstanding structures in the state.

On June 15, the YWCA-sponsored tour will be to the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael.

Asia Said Next Christian Center

NEW YORK (UPI) —Christianity's "next great thrust" will come not from the United States or Europe but from the new Churches of Asia, according to Dr. Henry P. Van Dusen, president emeritus of Union Theological Seminary here.

"The churches of Asia are far more buoyant in their faith and far more contagious than churches in the United States," Dr. Van Dusen told the annual dinner meeting of the United Board for Christian Higher Education in Asia. He stressed the need for supporting Christian colleges in Asia so they may train clergymen, evangelists, Christian educators and other leaders for Asian churches.

St. Stephen's Guild Is Due Asian Talk

Ernest W. Howell, a specialist in South and Southeast Asian affairs, will be the featured speaker at the regular meeting of St. Stephen's Guild of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Belvedere, at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in Whitaker Hall. Viet Nam will be his subject for the public meeting.

Howell, a representative of the Asian Foundation, was evacuated from Saigon. He is living at Stinson Beach with his wife and four young children while he is recovering from injuries received in the bombing of the American embassy in Saigon. He was on an official visit when the embassy was bombed.

He is a graduate of Harvard University and worked for the World Assembly of Youth in New York City for 10 years after his graduation.

Howell has been with the Asian Foundation for the past 10 taken him to Ceylon, Pakistan and Viet Nam. He has spent the past 18 months in Saigon.

Ecumenism Gain In Korea Told

MARYKNOLL, N. Y. (UPI) — The ecumenical spirit is beginning to catch on in Korea, according to a report from Maryknoll Father Joseph H. Davis, of Williamsville, N. Y., who wrote from Inchon, Korea, that Catholic and Protestant missioners have been meeting together to discuss ecumenical problems.

"At present," said Father Davis, "the aim is to gather together as Christians and pray for Korea, and to stop Communism." The meetings are run like a Protestant service, with hymns, invocations and scripture readings.

New Professorship

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Rev. Dr. Johannes Christian Hoekendijk, active for more than 15 years in the International Missionary Council and the World Council of Churches, has been named Professor of Missions at Union Theological Seminary here, effective July 1.

Pope John's Sainthood Seen As Slow, Certain

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — A great sigh, almost a sob, went up from the thousands of persons gathered in St. Peter's Square as the huge bronze door to the right of the Basilica was closed by Swiss guards.

"Il papa e morto!" said a black - garbed peasant woman, dropping to her knees on the cobblestones with tears running down her face.

Pope John XXIII was dead—at 7:49 the evening of June 3, 1963.

The traditional closing of the bronze door to mark his death was the closing of an era that lasted only four years, seven months and six days.

Yet in that relatively short time the rotund, craggy - faced peasant's son who rose to the throne of St. Peter had brought new light and warmth into the Roman Catholic Church.

Few popes before him became so genuinely liked by so many people around the world, and at least in modern times no Pope won so much general affection in so brief a time.

The dramatic 94 hours of his death agony held the sad attention of the entire Western world and much of the Communist. Many said of him as he died, "he already is a saint."

Since then there has been a popular movement for John's canonization, but the Catholic Church moves slowly in such matters. Although it is regarded as highly likely that he will be santified some day, it won't be this year, nor possibly even this century.

For a pontiff to become a saint is no easy matter.

When Pope Pius X was proclaimed a saint in 1954, 40 years after his death, he was the first pontiff in 242 years to be canonized.

He was the 78th of the 263 recognized popes to be made a saint, although others have been beatified.

The two years since John XXIII's death have not dimmed the memories of him. Every week thousands of persons go into the grottoes under St. Peter's Basilica to pray at his simple, white marble tomb. There still are many tourists, also, who go to Sotto il Monte, not far from Bergamo in northern Italy, to look at the two-story farm house where he grew up.

Around the Italian countryside, in the houses of the poor peasants who form the bulwark of this nation's Catholicism, a picture of John XXIII usually hangs someplace. Often it is just a faded picture from a magazine or newspaper. But still it is displayed in a place of honor.

Confirmation Rite Slated In San Rafael

The rite of confirmation will be observed at Trinity Lutheran Church of San Rafael tomorrow. The Sacrament of Holy Communion will be celebrated at the 10:30 a.m. service.

The young people, all eighth-grade students, have completed from one to two years of systematic study of Christian teachings.

Members of the confirmation class are: Diane Belben, Bryan Davis, Deborah Hoyt, Celeste Jessen, Bruce Johnson, David Lapic, Sandra Levy, Carolisa Lindberg, Suzanne Moser, Julene Schulz and Donald Whitecar, all of San Rafael; John Borba of Petaluma, Daniel Friedman of Kentfield, Susan Deffner and Cynthia Pollman of San Anselmo, Bonnie Hitzeman of Novato, Carolyn Pedersen of Fairfax, and Gary Radmilovich of Woodacre.

The Rev. Fred C. Braunschweiger, minister, will officiate at the rite and also will preach the sermon.

TV Money Spurs Pro Grid Expansion Tussle

Independent-Journal Sports

Houston Heads NFL Candidates

NEW YORK (AP) — The old established National Football League and the brash young American Football League are now engaged in a tidy little tussle that may produce no losers—just winners.

Armed with millions and millions of dollars in television money, and immense public interest, both the 14-team NFL and eight-team AFL have announced plans to expand and share the wealth.

If there are any potential losers, they are only the many cities that have made bids for franchises and won't get them.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle has recommended his league add two teams by 1967. Houston is almost certain to be one of them. Boston, Miami and New Orleans are likely contenders for the other spot.

Houston and Boston currently have teams in the AFL, but that doesn't seem to faze Rozelle,

"I have not given extensive thought to that," he said. "I have no feelings about those cities in particular."

AFL May Name Cities Next Week

AFL Commissioner Joe Foss, when informed of the NFL move, said he'd thought about it much longer and might expand sooner, perhaps putting two new teams on the field by 1966.

Atlanta is almost certain to be one of them. The other prime contenders are Philadelphia, Miami and New Orleans. Chicago is another strong possibility.

The NFL is firmly entrenched in Philadelphia and Chicago, but Foss isn't concerned.

"We are ready to meet them head on in any bids for attractive franchises," he said. "They have a 40-year head start on us but we're strong and healthy and we can hold our own."

The AFL has an expansion meeting scheduled in New Jersey Monday and Tuesday. The league is expected to announce its two expansion cities at that time, beating the NFL to the punch by a year.

"To say it will be Philadelphia and Atlanta is guesswork," Foss said. "They are two fine cities and we'd like to have them, but we have 50 or more applications."

Atlanta has been pressing for an AFL franchise for some time and is apparently a bit miffed with the NFL. This dates back to the time the city was passed over in favor of St. Louis when the Cardinal franchise was shifted from Chicago.

Multimillion dollar offers have been made—and refused—to shift existing AFL franchises in Denver and San Diego to Atlanta. The southern city also has a new $18 million stadium to offer, sure-fire attendance and a television audience throughout the South.

Atlanta's bid is being made by the Cox Broadcasting Corp., owner of radio and TV stations in Atlanta and other Southern cities. J. Leonard Reinsch, president of the organization, said he would attend the AFL meeting.

"We will make a strong presentation, urging that they expand into Atlanta," he said.

Marking Philadelphia as a strong AFL possibility is the fact that Jerry Wolman, president of the NFL Philadelphia Eagles, has vigorously sought—but failed to acquire—exclusive use of a proposed $25 million stadium.

Ex-West Pointer Heads Syndicate

The Philadelphia group seeking an AFL franchise is a syndicate headed by Joseph McCrane, a one-time football player under Col. Red Blaik at West Point and now head of Garden State Park race track. Blaik would be a stockholder.

There is, however, a possibility that both Philadelphia and Chicago will be passed over by the AFL this time in favor of future expansion in 1968.

"It is our hope to add two teams for 1966 and two more in the next couple of years, probably by 1968," Foss said. "We are looking for the big cities, those that can take two teams but where only one team now exists."

He named Philadelphia and Chicago, along with Los Angeles, San Francisco, Cleveland and Detroit.

Houston appears headed for an NFL franchise because of recent maneuvering concerning use of the famed domed stadium. The AFL Houston Oilers announced yesterday they have signed a five-year contract to play their games in Rice Stadium, leaving the domed stadium wide open for football.

Roy Hofheinz, president of the group that has a 40-year lease on the domed stadium, is believed to be a strong advocate of acquiring an NFL franchise.

Boston, the hub of New England, is the biggest metropolitan area untapped by the NFL.

NFL Hires Research Organization

It may have been significant that Rozelle said he had been instructed by the NFL club owners to hire an independent market research organization to investigate the potential of prospective cities and "my recommendations will be guided by the findings of the research organization."

Miami and New Orleans both have excellent stadiums and professed interest, but may be lacking by comparison in the matter of "market," all-important in this day of television.

The AFL, currently composed of teams in New York, Boston, Buffalo, Kansas City, Houston, Denver, San Diego and Oakland, has a five-year, $36 million television contract with NBC-TV.

The NFL's two-year contract with CBS, at $14.1 million a year, expires after the 1965 season. It has teams in Cleveland, Dallas, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Washington in the Eastern Conference, and Baltimore, Chicago, Detroit, Green Bay, Los Angeles, Minnesota and San Francisco in the Western Conference.

Rozelle said that with expansion, two eight-team conferences may be formed, each with two four-team divisions. The divisional leaders then would play off for the conference title and the conference winners play for the league title.

Both Rozelle and Foss predicted they would gain approval for their expansion plans. The AFL requires the vote of six of eight league directors, the NFL the approval of 12 of 14.

Marin Net Pros Enter Tourney

Hal Wagner of the Rafael Racquet Club in San Rafael and Paul Wilkins of the Belvedere Tennis Club will compete in the first Orinda Professional Tennis Tournament June 12 and 13.

Wagner and Wilkins are among 20 teaching professionals who have entered the tournament which will consist of men's and women's doubles matches only. It will be held at the Orinda Country Club.

Play each day will begin at 10 a.m. A $500 purse will be divided among the winning teams. Proceeds of the tourney will go to the Northern California Tennis Assn. Patrons Fund, which is set up to assist local junior players in their travels to National Championships.

AUSSIE SCORES WORLD DOUBLE; SNELL—3:56.4

By ALEX KAHN

LOS ANGELES (UPI)— Australia's Ron Clarke was less surprised today than were observers of his double world record run last night at the Compton invitational track meet when he clipped better than seven seconds from the three-mile and 5,000-meter marks.

And New Zealand's Peter Snell was satisfied that he edged out Jim Grelle of Portland, Ore., in 3:56.4 in the mile, although pressed to his limit at the finish. Both were clocked in the same time.

Prep sensation Jim Ryun was third in 3:56.8.

The 5,000 meter event and the mile run were the final two events on the program and the crowd of 12,160 was still gasping over Clarke's twin record show when Snell encountered stiffer competition than he had bargained for in his race.

In running the 5,000 meters in 13:25.8, Clarke shattered his own mark of 13:33.6 set Feb. 1 at Auckland, New Zealand. He was officially timed at the three-mile point of the race in 13:00.4 to break the mark of 13:07.6 he set Dec. 3, 1964, at Melbourne, Australia.

"I was not really surprised at the time," the 28-year-old Australian said candidly after the race. "I didn't say I expected to set a record because I didn't want to disappoint people if I failed. But I knew I could do it.

"I knew I was on a record pace right along. Please give Neville Scott credit for making it possible. He sacrificed himself to help me along."

Snell, 26, finishing up his great career, said he was satisfied with the time and was glad to settle for anything under 3:57. But he was surprised at the strong finish by Grelle.

"He was really coming at the end," Snell said. "And that youngster, Jim Ryun, is amazing for his age."

The 17-year-old Ryun, who last week startled the track world by running the distance in 3:58.1, was clocked in 3:56.8 in finishing third.

In Clarke's race, Scott stayed with the Australian for slightly more than a mile and then began to fade. The New Zealand pacemaker's mile time was 4:17. From then on it was all Clarke's race. He led at the two miles by 100 yards in 8:40 on his way to the two records.

Clarke and Snell both head for Toronto, Canada. Clarke on Thursday meets Bob Schul, Albie Thomas and Bill Baillie among others in a three-mile race while Snell competes

Methodical Old Man Boros Holds Lead In Buick Open

GRAND BLANC, Mich (UPI) —Methodical Julius Boros, his nerves tuned to tourney pressure by 17 years on the pro golf circuit, readied himself today for a down-to-the-wire challenge from young and old alike in his bid to become the first player to win the $100,000 Buick Open twice.

Boros posted a two-under-par 70 on the 7,280-yard Warwick Hills course yesterday for a 36-hole 139 that put him two strokes in front of the field. It wasn't the best round of the day as Gary Player, George Archer and Jacky Cupit tallied 68's, and Mason Rudolph and Howie Johnson 69's.

But Boros, who set a record of 274 when he won this event in 1963, was only one stroke off the pace with an opening day 69, and none of those who outshot him yesterday was that close.

Thus, seven pros — veterans Doug Sanders, Jack Nicklaus, Tony Lema, Johnny Pott, Gary Player and Bert Weaver and rookie Steve Spray, playing in only his seventh pro tourney and hoping for his first paycheck of the tour—were at 141, two strokes behind.

Rookie Jack Montgomery had 142; Archer, Cupit, Gene Littler, Bob Zimmerman and Miller Barber 143; and Johnson, Terry Dill and Wright Garrett 144, even par.

The task of catching Boros should be formidable for any of them, and unless the 45-year-old Hungarian blows up, an unlikely development, anyone more than five strokes behind might as well forget it.

In this group are such name players as Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper at 145, Mason Rudolph, Tommy Bolt and Tommy Jacobs at 146, Bill Collins, Jay Hebert and Doug Ford at 147, and Dick Mayer, Jerry Barber and Bob Rosburg at 148.

The field for today's round was cut to the 72 leading scorers, and some of the game's top players went to the sidelines, among them Bob Charles, Chi Chi Rodriguez, Ken Venturi, Bruce Crampton, Don January, and Mike Souchak.

Marin Twins Rewrite Records In Colorado Prep Track Meet

A set of Belvedere twins, attending Colorado Academy, will be long remembered at that institution after they are graduated in 1966.

The twins, Guy and Ned Modica, are the hottest track and field items to hit the state of Colorado since the Pueblo Indians hot-footed it over the desert.

Scoring 33 points between them, the duo almost singlehandedly won their school a championship at the ninth annual state-wide Colorado Private Schools track and field meet held last month. They set three state records in the process.

The Colorado Springs team won the championship in the last event of the day, the mile relay, scoring 46½ points to edge Colorado Academy which scored a total of 44½.

Ned Modica was first and Guy second in a 10 flat 100-yard dash that almost wound up in a dead heat. Guy won the 220 in 22.3 and Ned was a step behind at 22.4. Ned had set a state record of 9.7 in the preliminary 100 and Guy rain it in 9.9.

Guy took the broad jump with a record leap of 22 feet, 2½ inches, and Ned Finished fourth. Reversing positions, Ned won the triple jump with a state record distance of 43-6 and Guy finished third.

So between them, the Modicas won four first places, two seconds, a third and a fourth, competing with the best track and field athletes in Colorado's private schools. Not to mention their three state records.

Before enrolling at Colorado Academy, the Modica twins were at Redwood High School from where they transferred. Since they're only juniors, watch out next year when they compete as seniors.

The just might rename Colorado Academy "Modica High."

McCovey Hot But Giants Lose Again

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Willie McCovey is hitting a ton, but the big guy can't carry the San Francisco Giants' attack all alone.

Willie unloaded his 13th round tripper last night with Jesus Alou on base, but the Giants lost a 4-2 battle to tough Cincinnati before 15,668 fans. McCovey is now second to Willie Mays among National League homer hitters and his 39 runs batted in are second only to Ernie Banks of the Cubs.

The series resumes tonight with Juan Marichal (7-5) or Jack Sanford (3-1) and Jim Maloney (5-1) squaring off in a battle of flame-throwing righthanders. The Giants enter the contest in fourth place, one game back of Cincinnati and Milwaukee and five behind tough Los Angeles.

Gaylord Perry pitched well last night, but he made two poor throws. One came to Johnny Edwards with two on in the second and the fine Cincinnati catcher walloped it for his eighth homer to put the Reds out in front to stay. Perry's second bad throw was over McCovey's head at first base and it brought in the other Cincinnati tally. Perry fanned 11 before giving way to a pinch-hitter in the eighth. Frank Linzy finished up and the two combind on an eight-hitter with Cincinnati slugger Frank Robinson getting three of the winners' hits.

The Giants were still hanging tough in the eighth when Dick Schofield singled and Jay Alou doubled him to third with one out. But lefty Bill McCool came on for tiring Joey Jay and fanned McCovey and retired Mays on a long fly to right field. McCool sailed through the final inning to help Jay run his record to 4-1 for the year. Perry is now 5-4.

Mays went 0-for-4 and his average has now dipped to .335. McCovey is at .329 and Alou, who had two of the Giants' seven hits, is at .325.

Laver Vs. Rosewall In Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) — Ken Rosewell, using a masterful backhand, downed Mal Anderson 6-1, 6-3 yesterday to stroke his way into the semi-finals of the $10,000 Greater Seattle Tennis Tournament.

Rosewall will face Rod Laver today. The two have met only three times on the current professional tour and Laver has the edge 2-1. (Laver earlier this week won the Peacock Gap title in San Rafael.)

Andres Gimeno, who defeated Earl Buchholz in the quarterfinals, will meet Pancho Gonzales in the first semi-final match.

Laver and Buchholz defeated Barry MacKay and Luis Ayala 6-3, 6-4 in the doubles semifinals. They meet Rosewall and Anderson in the finals tonight.

Terrible Tommy Is Mellowing

FLINT, Mich. — Thomas Henry Bolt, the last active volcano on the North American continent, the only golfer in the world who's as apt to explode off the first tee as out of a sand trap, is anxious to find out where to go to turn in his temper. Terrible Tommy wants to become sweet Alice Ben Bolt. After 20 years of thunder, he thinks it's time to let the flowers grow.

The betting here is that it will be like capping Vesuvius—interesting but impractical, turning Old Faithful into a cold water trickle, silencing a Southern politician, teaching a jaguar sto like soup.

TOMMY LEADS the tour in twisted metal. There might be a broken heart for every light on Broadway but there's a broken locker for every scuffed putt or topped two-iron Tommy ever hit. He holds every club record for throwing shoes—and tantrums. Lots of guys have sunk 30-yard putts but Tommy sank a 30-yard putter in a lake at Cherry Hills once. He has been known to jettison clubs during bad rounds with such abandon he almost had to play out with a knife and fork. He can putt with any club in the bag—because he's had so much practice at it. He can get more distance with his driver than anyone who ever played the game. Only trouble is, he has to roll up his pants leg to get it back.

ALL THAT is behind him now. Tommy wouldn't lose his temper if he four-putted from three feet out. He might cry a little. But curse? No. Not T. H. Bolt, the lovable old gentleman of the fairways. If he hits a shot in the woods now he won't send the offending club to join it. He'll just go in there with a sweet smile and, if he can't find the ball, at least he can come out with a buttercup or two. An unplayable lie and he can at least take comfort that one of "those flippy-wristed kids" who's so in hock to his sponsor he has to wash his own Cadillac might pick up some needed money. Tommy Bolt proposes to make Whistler's Mother look like a bank heister.

WHAT HAS brought all this about is that Tom has suddenly realized that the only weak part of his game is the gallery.

"Look at it this way: Arnold Palmer makes a great shot and the way they cheer you'd think he was goin' to split the money with them," Tommy explains.

He spread his fingers eight inches apart. "Now," he went on, "I lay one up there THAT far from the pin. Man, you cain't hit the ball any better than that. And everyone stands around as if it was bad news from home."

It is a problem Tommy has lived with for many years on the tour.

"THERE IS SOMETHIN' about me. People think I look mean. The way I walk, it looks like I'm swaggering. But, you see, in my heart, I like everybody. I don't have an enemy in the world, in my heart. Don't you see, I get mad at myself."

It has suddenly occured to Tommy that filling the air with flying clubs, shoes, curses and assorted effluvia of an atomic temper may have cost him more real estate (on a golf course) than Mussolini in his prime. Carpet-chewing comes high.

It's the Arnold Palmer syndrome. Golf has looked on aghast as Arnold has proven that waves of affection and wishful encouragement from a gallery can be cashed in as birdies, eagles, championships—and cash.

TOMMY IS as impressed as everyone else. "The public makes a champion, don't you see? Every time I ever won, I was encouraged. Now, you can tell when I come up on the green, everybody is pulling for me to miss it. 'Hey, Tommy, why don't you thro' a club?' They yell. How can a man play under those conditions. The press has made people think I'm a lantern-jawed, beetle-nose walking bundle of hate. I guess I've blown a lot of tournaments because I've got discouraged. But I ain't mad at nobody but old Thomas H. Bolt."

To Arnie's Army will now have to be added "Bolt's Backbiters." Which is a pity. Because Tommy Bolt has been a colorful adjunct to this grand old game for almost two decades. His antics have hurt no one but Tommy, his thunder has all been on Bolt.

IN THE twilight of a great career he's trying to make a buck here in the $100,000 Buick Open where he might win 18 grand and a new Buick. In any case, golf's stepchild is entitled to a small groan when he boots a short putt. And at least a short cheer when he knocks one stiff. He wishes people would root for him to win a tournament not lose a temper. And so do I.

LAZZARINI GAINS 100 FINAL IN STATE MEET

Drake High School junior Dean Lazzarini has qualified for today's finals in the 100-yard dash at the 47th annual California State High School Track and Field Championships in Bakersfield, but Tamalpais High's Greg Sparks failed in his bid to gain the finals in the mile.

Lazzarini ran a 9.8 seconds century last night, placing third in his heat. The fastest three men in each of three heats qualified for the finals scheduled for tonight. Best qualifying times in the 100 were identical 9.5 clockings by Hal Busby of Muir and Ralph Wise of Pasadena. Busby, whose 9.5 tied the state record, also broke the Cal mark in the 220-yard dash in 20.5.

Sparks' time in the mile was not announced, but slowest of the mile qualifiers was 4:18.1, so he was slower than that. His best previous time was 4:21.4.

Sparks and Lazzarini were the only Marin athletes to advance as far as the state meet.

Mathews Keeping Braves In Race

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

Eddie Mathews is showing the Milwaukee Braves the truth of that old baseball axiom that sometimes the best trades are the ones which aren't made.

Mathews was a forlorn old man of 33 toting a .233 batting average when the 1964 season ended and General Manager Johnny McHale of the Braves tried to peddle him to just about anybody who'd listen.

No one would listen then but they're listenin' now because Mathews is making one of the really surprising comebacks of the 1965 campaign with 12 homers, a .272 batting average and a deluge of game-winning hits that are keeping the Braves in the National League pennant race.

Mathews delivered the most important hit of the Braves' season so far last night when his 12th homer of the season with two on and one out in the ninth inning gave Milwaukee a 5-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers. The victory moved the Braves to within four games of the front-running Dodgers whereas a loss would have dropped them six games behind.

Wade Blasingame singled to start the Braves' winning rally with one out in the ninth and Felipe Alou also singled before Mathews hammered the 457th homer of his career deep into the right field seats at Milwaukee.

FOURTH STRAIGHT

The drive gave Blasingame his fourth straight win and sixth of the season. Blasingame, a $100,000 bonus pitcher who didn't get into the Braves' starting rotation until they sent Warren Spahn to the New York Mets, went the route with an eight-hitter embellished with seven strikeouts.

The Cincinnati Reds downed the San Francisco Giants 4-2, the New York Mets edged out the Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1, the Houston Astros defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 5-2, and the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Chicago Cubs 6-0 in other NL games.

Jack Fisher scattered eight hits to score his fifth win and extend the Mets' winning streak to four games. Bill Mazeroski singled after a double by Donn Clendenon to give the Pirates a 1-0 lead in the second inning but the Mets tied the score on Joe Christopher's single and Charley Smith's triple in the sixth. Chris Cannizzaro tallied the winning run for the Mets in the seventh when second baseman Mazeroski dropped the ball on a force play.

GIBSON LOSES

World Series hero Bob Gibson pitched a five-hitter for the Crdinals but two of the hits were homers — one a two-run blow by Walt Bond in the sixth and the other a three-run blast by .191-hitting Ron Brand in the ninth. Bob Bruce went eight innings to score his fourth win for the Astros.

Jim Bunning pitched a five-hitter and struck out seven in gaining his third shutout of the year for the Phillies. Wes Covington hit a two-run homer and Johnny Callison had a double and a triple for the Phillies.

Yankees Dying By Own Weapon

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

The story of the 1965 American League pennant race may well have been told last night when two bombs burst in Yankee Stadium.

Roll back the clock and call the roll of the greats and you'd say that the bombs were fired by Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Joe DiMaggio or Mickey Mantle. But on this night you'd be wrong—for they were fired by guys named Danny Cater and Floyd Robinson.

For it may be that the Yankees who long lived by the long ball may now be dying by it.

It was "operation get well" for the Yankees because they were facing the White Sox. So often in the past, the Yankees pulled out victories and turned the tide of the pennant race. But this time it was different. This time it was the White Sox who came up with the long ball—the big bomb that terrorized the league in years past.

Danny Cater broke the 15-inning scoreless spell with a homer and one out later Floyd Robinson also homered to give relief pitcher Eddie Fisher an easy fifth victory against one loss. Fisher stopped the Yankees on one hit over the last six innings to win over Pete Mikkelsen, who suffered his second loss.

The Minnesota Twins made it 12 victories in their last 15 games with a 9-5 win over the Washington Senators, the Cleveland Indians beat the Detroit Tigers 7-6 and the Los Angeles Angels downed the Baltimore Orioles 4-3, in other A.L. games.

Jim Kaat won his fifth game for the Twins with the help of homers by Bob Allison and Jimmie Hall. It was Kaat's fifth victory against five losses while Danny Koplitz suffered the loss.

Joe Azcue's two-run single in the eighth-inning drove in the winning runs for the Indians as Sonny Siebett raised his record to 6-2. Al Kaline homered for the Tigers.

Rookie Marcelino Lopez won his seventh game for the Angels, aided by Bob Lee's relief in the ninth. Jim Fregosi had two hits for the Angels.

Marin Semi-Pro Baseball Clubs Open League Tonight, Tomorrow

The Billings-Hutchison Biulders and Mill Valley Merchants will kick off their campaigns in the Bay Area Invitational Semi-Pro Baseball League this weekend.

The Builders of San Rafael host Hatzell Radio of El Cerrito tonight at 8 o'clock at Albert Field, and the Merchants take on Husteads of Alameda tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. on the Project 17 Field in Mill Valley.

With victories over five of the other six teams in the league, the Builders rate a strong chance for the championship. B-H nipped Husteads before the team switched sponsorship from Milens Jewelers, 2-1; whipped Hatzell Radio 11-3; drubbed Pacifica 16-3; dropped Gino Benedetti 9-3, and beat Mill Valley 9-4, all practice games this year. The Builders havn't met the Santa Rosa Elks this year, but it is a team that is rated very strong.

Scheduled to pitch the opening game for the San Rafael nine is either southpaw Bob DeRosa or righthander Dave Hughes. Going for Hatzell will be lefthander Johnny Oldham, who in his last appearance at Albert Field struck out 22 batters in the 1961 Marin tournament.

Billings-Hutchison will travel to Yountville tomorrow for a practice game with a team representing the veteran's home there.

The Mill Valley Merchants, a team featured by many College of Marin stars, will be getting a rough test in their opener, as this former Milens bunch is one of the strongest teams in the Bay Area. Frank Burch, a Marin Catholic graduate who played at University of San Francisco this past season, will be the starting pitcher for M.V.

"This league should provide the best baseball fans have seen around here for a long time," said Builders manager Joe Anselmo.

"Without a doubt it is the strongest league we've ever played in," declared Mill Valley manager Bob Selna.

Lineup and batting order for Billings-Hutchinson:

Jess Jacinto, ss; Don Lauters, 3b; Dick Spackman, 1b; Doug Wilson, lf; Ernie Demattei rf; Vince Pallavicini, cf; Jesse Munyon, c; John Brookman, 2b, and either DeRosa or Hughes, p.

Lineup and batting order for Mill Valley:

Frank Ubhaus, 2b; Sandy Slack, lf; Bill Clark, 1b; John Odetto, cf; Joe Hebel, rf; Bill Brody, 3b; Fred Mack, c; Nick Willard, ss; Frank Burch, p.

Terra Lindans Dominate San Rafael Legion Team

The roster for the San Rafael Wilkins Post 37 team of the North Bay American Legion reads like a Terra Linda High School lineup, with eight Trojans from this past season on it.

The team uses players from Terra Linda, San Rafael and Marin Catholic high schools, and since the age limit is 19, Bill Lee, a Terra Linda graduate now attending USC, is on the team. He was a star pitcher in the Marin Athletic League in 1964.

From San Rafael High are Rocky Shone, a catcher, and second baseman Ken Lampert. From Marin Catholic are pitcher Ben Burch, first baseman-outfielder George King and third Bob Lombardi.

San Rafael won its opening league game of the season last Tuesday over Fairfield and was to play a weekend pair of games, starting today against Mare Island, and tomorrow against Vallejo, both games at Wilson Park in Vallejo.

Schedule for Wilkins Post 37 of San Rafael:

Sat., June 5—Mare Island at Wilson Park, Vallejo, 1:30 p.m.
Sun., June 6—Vallejo at Wilson Park, 1 p.m.
Wed., June 9—At Alameda, 5 p.m.*

Raiders Sign Up Ex-Gopher Star

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders of the American Football League announced yesterday they have signed Roger Hagberg, former University of Minnesota fullback and a three-year veteran of Canadian football.

Hagberg, 26, stands 6-2 and weighs 220. He joined the Winnipeg Blue Bombers in 1961 after three years at Minnesota. He played with the Gophers in the Rose Bowl.

He was idle in 1964 due to a thyroid condition and was a free agent when signed by Oakland.

Camera Day Set At Candlestick

The fifth annual Giants-Brooks Camera Day will be held Saturday, June 26, at Candlestick Park when the Giants oppose the Philadelphia Phillies.

Camera fans who would like to take close-ups of their favorite stars should be at Candlestick Park between 11 a.m. and noon. Fifty prizes will be given to the camera day winners.

Fencer Champ

BUDAPEST (UPI) — Ilona Elek of Hungary, who won Olympic championships in 1936 and 1948 and world championships in 1934, 1935 and 1951, is considered the greatest woman fencer of all time.

Schoolboy Sets 6-10 Jump Mark

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill McClellon, 17-year-old junior at DeWitt Clinton High School, set a national schoolboy outdoor record in the high jump at Randalls Island last night by leaping 6 feet, 10 inches.

The mark was set in the New York City public school track and field championships.

Walter Maugham of New Castle, Pa., set the previous outdoor record of 6-9¾ in 1956. Richard Jones of Bakersfield, Calif., equalled it in 1962 as did Ed Hanks of San Diego in 1964.

McClellon also holds the national schoolboy indoor mark for the high jump of 6-10¼.

Indian Valley Golf Tourney

The fourth annual Indian Valley Women's Golf Club Invitational tournament will be played next Tuesday and Wendesday at the Novato course.

Guests from clubs throughout the Bay Area will be teamed with members of the host club in the two-day eclectic tournament that has a field of 60 signed up.

The tourney will wind up with a luncheon Wednesday where awards will be presented to the winners.

Hardtops Roar At Petaluma, Vallejo

Hardtops will roar tonight at two North Bay locations, the Petaluma Fairgrounds and Vallejo Speedway.

The Petaluma show starts with qualifying at 7 o'clock followed by the first race at 8:15 p.m. The Bay Cities Racing Assn. hardtops at Vallejo will have time trials at 7:30 and heat racing beginning at 8:30.

U.S. Takes 2-0 Lead In Davis Cup Tennis Play

BAKERSFIELD (AP)—The United States Davis Cup tennis team enters today's doubles match against Canada almost assured of a trip to Dallas next month to meet the Mexico-New Zealand winner.

The heavily favored U.S. players encountered little difficulty in yesterday's opening singles as Arthur Ashe overwhelmed Keith Carpenter, 6-3, 6-3, 6-1, and Gene Scott downed Harry Fauquier, 6-3, 6-2, 4-6, 6-4. The wins gave the United States a comfortable 2-0 lead.

Capt. George MacCall's team could clinch the American zone competition here with a victory in the doubles, where Chuck McKinley and Marty Riessen are expected to be the U.S. representatives against Fauquier and Carpenter.

Two more singles matches are scheduled tomorrow, but these will be exhibitions if McKinley and Riessen win.

A victory over Canada, although expected, would be the first step toward repossessing the trophy the Americans lost to Australia in Cleveland last year.

Ashe, who hits his serve and ground strokes with impressive power, kept the pressure on Carpenter and was always in command.

"I thought I played a lot better than usual," said the nation's third-ranked amateur. "I missed only two volleys. That really surprised me."

Asked about future matches, the UCLA senior responded, "I really feel full of confidence."

"Playing Davis Cup isn't like playing in a tournament for yourself," Scott said afterward. "You think about representing the country.

"I didn't want to take chances," he said, analyzing his generally conservative play. "But I think I responded when I had to, and I played a couple of good games."

Expansion Or Not, AFL Players Seek More $$

BOSTON (AP) — Expansion or no expansion, the players want action on their salary, pension fund and expense proposals at the American Football league owners' meeting at Monmouth Park, N.J., starting Monday.

The athletes will certainly be watching developments very closely, said Tom Addison, Boston Patriots linebacker and president of the AFL Players Association.

Addison said the association submitted proposals to their club owners at the winter meeting in Houston, but the latter were unable to act on them due to a crowded agenda.

As a result, Commissioner Joe Foss has allocated time at the New Jersey meeting.

Some of the main issues in the player proposals center around the new $6.7 million television contract with NBC for the final championship and All-Star games. This contract calls for a graduated scale over the five years of its existence.

The players seek assurance that participants in the final championship game will receive approximately the same amount for the next five years, regardless of the stadium in which the game is played.

The players also want their pension fund to share equally over the five-year period in the money remaining from the championship and All-Star games.

The association's proposals also suggest an increase of $6 a day for training camp expense and a sum from the championship game television proceeds to go to the second-place teams in each division.

Flash Elorde Keeps Title— Kayo In 15th

Elorde floored the Japanese challenger with a overhand right after a sharp exchange near the ropes.

Kosaka staggered to his feet, and the referee was about to permit the fight to resume when the glassy-eyed challenger stumbled again to his knees and rolled over on the mat and the referee ended the fight.

The fight ended at two minutes, 14 seconds of the final round.

The 30-year-old champion, making the eighth defense of his six-year reign, clearly dominated the contest.

COPS AGAIN BEAT 'ROBBERS'

The cops beat the robbers again yesterday.

The Novato Police Department softball team, led by Bob DiGrazia who clouted a home run and three singles, defeated the San Quentin inmates team 15-11 yesterday.

The game was played at San Quentin.

against Canada's Bill Crothers in the half mile.

Crothers of Canada won the 880 last night in a race closer than Snell's mile. The Canadian won by so narrow a margin over Bob Hose of San Diego and Ted Nelson of Los Angeles that all three were given the same time of 1:48.7.

Other highlight performances included George Young's 8:41.0 victory in the 3,000 meter steeplechase; Jay Silvester's 203 feet, 5½ inch winning toss in the discus over Ludwig Danek, the world record holder second at 200 5½; Hal Connolly's hammer throw of 225-4 and Wyomia Tyus' American record equaling mark of 10:5 in the women's 100.

Everyone's Talking About THE OAKVIEW CLUB
THE MEADOWS

WHY? . . . Because the Oakview Club—your own Private Club, is just a short walk from your beautiful Apartment or Townhouse. There is a putting green, lockers, men's and women's lounges, showers and sauna baths . . . 2 sunken championship tennis courts with a seating capacity for 500 spectators . . . two large heated swimming pools and a wading pool . . . shuffleboard, ping-pong and a large, comfortable sunning area . . . all this amidst rolling hills, studded with ancient oaks and beautifully landscaped.

THE CLUB HOUSE itself is luxuriously furnished . . . the cocktail lounge is carpeted and has a huge fireplace . . . intimate social-dining room . . . spacious facilities for private receptions, parties, bridge, teen-age dances and indoor movies.

APARTMENTS consist of one, two and three bedrooms.

TOWNHOUSES consist of two and three bedrooms, 1½ baths.

CHOICES of parquet flooring or area carpeting. All are beautifully draped. All have louvered doors within. Kitchens are completely electric. All refrigerators are self-defrosting and have separate freezer tops. THESE UNITS ARE THE ONLY ONES IN MARIN COUNTY WITH CENTRAL AIR CONDITIONING, THERMOSTATICALLY CONTROLLED. Rents start at $160 per month and afford family membership in the Oakview Club.

MODEL apartments, townhouses and the Oakview Club are open for YOUR inspection. Come out and compare.

DIRECTIONS: Past San Rafael take Terra Linda turnoff, continue to the end of Freitas Parkway, and then you enter THE MEADOWS.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Southern College Program Is Slated

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Notes to watch television by:

The Programs: "ABC Scope" this Wednesday will present a half - hour report on the attitude of today's southern college students toward integration and segregation . . . The program is expected to focus largely on the University of Alabama, where ABC - TV President Tom Moore, a native of Mississippi, recently delivered a commencement address . . . The telecast is also expected to include segments of a University of Alabama seminar on the subject of integration . . . On the Wednesday following, June 16, "ABC Scope" will present a report on the problems faced by American colleges and universities with enrollments booming . . . This program will focus on Ohio State University . . . CBS - TV previously announced a one-hour broadcast for June 14 about the recent furor at the University of California, "The Berkeley Rebels."

Add programs: NBC - TV "College Bowl" question-and-answer series returns next season . . . Same network's new Dean Martin variety series, which starts in the fall, will have John Wayne as a guest on its second show . . . Andy Griffith, Don Knotts and Jim ("Gomer Pyle") Nabors, who have done a nightclub act together, are set for a one - hour music-and-comedy special on CBS-TV next season . . . The trio also formerly appeared together as regulars on the weekly Griffith series . . . Nabors left to do "Gomer Pyle" this season . . . and Knotts will be gone from the show in the fall.

Second Add Programs: William Phillips, editor-in-chief of the influential Partisan Review, is a guest on CBS - TV's "Camera Three" Sunday, and discusses some of the problems in turning out a "little magazine" nowadays . . . also Sunday, same network's "Face The Nation" has an interview with David E. Bell, administrator of the Agency for International Development . . . CBS-TV's recent fill - in series from Britain, "Secret Agent," apparently has done well enough so that it will be kept on a standby basis next season to fill in again for a show that fails . . . It is not on the network's new regular fall schedule . . . CBS-TV says the music to be heard at the start of today's Belmont Stakes broadcast (5 p.m. EDT) will be a Dave Brubeck jazz arrangement of "Camptown Races" . . . crazy.

Vet Memorial Talks 'Amicable'

Representatives of the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation and Marin County veterans worked toward agreement on plans for the proposed Veterans Memorial Auditorium at the Civic Center last night.

County Administrator Alan Bruce said the meeting was "amicable," and none of the problems are "irreconcilable."

There will be locker space provided as resquested by the veterans, and there can be two permanent meeting rooms which the veterans also sought.

Still to be studied is the problem of foot traffic in the box office area, Bruce said.

Protestants Hear Cardinal

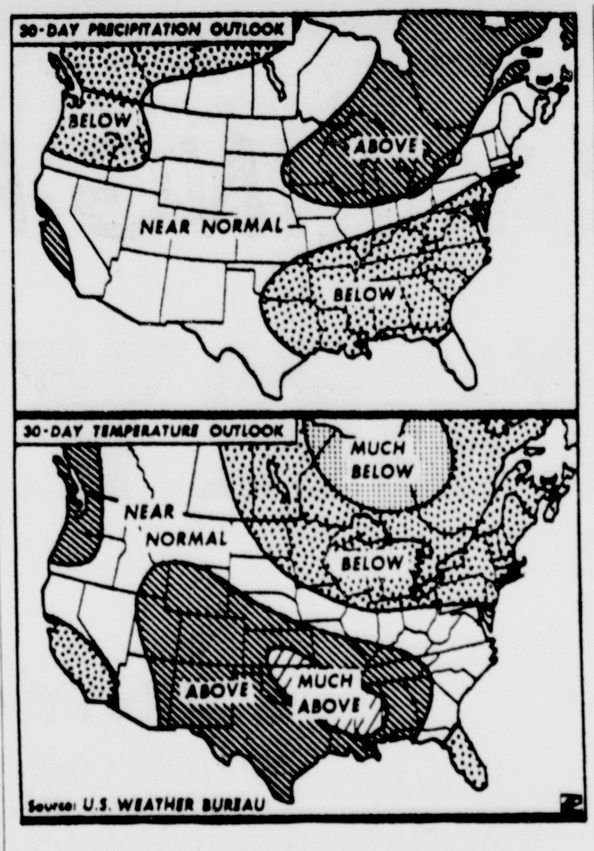
ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Joseph Cardinal Ritter, Roman Catholic archbishop of St. Louis made church history last night by giving the commencement address at a Protestant theological seminary.

An archdiocese spokesman said he thought no other Catholic cardinal had ever spoken at a Protestant seminary graduation.

Cardinal Ritter spoke last night to graduates of the Eden Theological Seminary, an affiliate of the United Church of Christ.

Vehicle Recovered

A white 1962 Chevrolet station wagon stolen May 30 in Millbrae was recovered by San Anselmo police on a routine check about midnight yesterday. Car, which contained several bottles of pills and jumper cables, was found abandoned on Sonoma Avenue near Isabel Cook school. Millbrae police were contacted to notify car's owner.



30-DAY WEATHER PICTURE

These maps, based on those supplied by the U.S. Weather Bureau, predict precipitation and temperatures for the next 30 days. The outlook for the Bay Area is for above normal precipitation and below normal temperatures.

SACRAMENTO SUMMARY

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Senate, fighting reapportionment all the way, passed legislation to split the state in two.

Assembly Republicans and Democrats, agreed on compromise budget cuts, prepare to vote Monday on Gov. Brown's spending bill.

THE ASSEMBLY

Bills passed:

Greenbelt — Authorizes city councils and county supervisors to establish special assessment districts to maintain open green areas; limits tax levy for such districts to 25 cents per $100 assessed valuation; AB 2841, Knox, D-Richmond.

Teachers — Requires 90-day waiting period between time teacher is charged with unprofessional conduct and dismissal; AB 2710, Petris, D-Oakland.

Open — Requires State Highway Commission to conduct meetings in public; makes it misdemeanor for commission members to meet in secret; makes invalid any commission action taken in secret; AB 3165, Lanterman, R-La Canada.

Billboards — Bans billboards from state highways except in commercial and industrial areas; gives owners of existing signs 10 years to remove them; provides bonus for sign owners who remove them before 10-year deadline; AB 1641, Z'berg, D-Sacramento.

Sites — Requires subdividers of 400 or more homes to dedicate school site at assessed value; AB 1238, Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Art — Grants property tax exemption on art objects to owners who agree to display art for 90 days in public museum; gives museum curator authority to determine whether art suitable for display, thus tax exempt; AB 997, Young, D-Napa.

Funerals — Limits to $150 prior claim of funeral home on estate of deceased for unpaid bills; AB 2712, Petris, D-Oakland.

Freeways — Requires independent hearing officer to preside at freeway route hearings; requires 60-day notice before route hearing; requires model as well as map of proposed freeway; makes mandatory for freeway route maps to show full extent of route rather than just section; AB 1429-1433, AB 1435, Z'berg.

Teletype — Provides for state teletypewriter system under direction of attorney general; AB 1671, Williamson, D-Bakersfield.

Registration — Requires registration of those convicted of narcotics offenses in other states; AB 1864, Thelin, R-Glendale.

THE SENATE

Constitution amendment adopted:

State — Authorizes legislature to consent to division of state and describes boundaries of two new states; SCA 5, Dolwig, R-San Mateo.

Bills passed:

State — Expresses consent of legislature to division of state; SB 109, Dolwig.

Mental — Makes present formula for state sharing mental health costs of local health districts under Short-Doyle program permanent; SB 1313, Short D-Stockton.

Crime — Allows family of person killed as result of crime eligible for aid under aid to families with dependent children program; SB 1057, McAteer, D-San Francisco.

Tidelands — Authorizes state to deduct taxes received by cities and counties derived from tidelands; SB 1095, O'Sullivan, D-Williams.

Three Officers Claim Beating In Night Club

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Three policemen said they were beaten last night at a Bush Street night club in a fracas that brought 11 squad cars and several motorcycle patrolmen.

The club features waitresses wearing topless costumes.

Jay Tyler, 43, a bartender at the club, The Cellar, was arrested on a charge of refusing to come to the aid of police officers. Three others in the club were charged with suspicion of aggravated assault and resisting arrest.

The three policemen were treated at Central Emergency Hospital for black eyes and bruises.

One, Capt. Charles Barca, said fists started swinging after the officers dropped into the club on a routine inspection and asked to see the owner.

Bagley Defense Bill Is Signed

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill that would allow a city to defend newly elected city officials has been signed into law by Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

The bill was AB 1098, by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The measure was introduced after Sausalito city councilmen were sued by Mrs. Marsha Owen (Sally Stanford) after the 1964 city elections. She charged election illegalities.

Bagley's measure would permit a city to defend city officials in actions involving their election.

Transport Crashes Near Boy In Field

SABATTUS, Me. (UPI) — A pilotless Air Force transport crashed into a farmer's field yesterday, narrowly missing 14-year-old John Vachon who was plowing for his father.

The pilot and three crewmen aboard had bailed out earlier. Their parachutes carried them down to scattered points near the Maine Turnpike, 20 miles from the crash scene. None was injured.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Daring Fetal Transfusions Are Saving Some Rh Babies

VAN DELLEN

Many obstetrical centers have medical teams that specialize in Rh problems of newborn infants. They give the baby one or more exchange transfusions when there is evidence that the tyke's red blood cells are being destroyed (erythroblastosis fetalis) and he is in danger of dying from anemia or brain damage. Many are pale or yellow in color, puffy, and breathing rapidly. Tests show their blood contains cell-destroying antibodies that developed because the mother was Rh negative.

ONE IN EVERY 150 pregnancies involves Rh erythroblastosis. Numerous lives are saved when the condition is suspected, evaluated, and treated properly. Many die before birth (stillbirth) and until recently, very little could be done to save them. In some instances, labor was induced weeks ahead of time while the baby was still alive.

The latest plan is to give the fetus a transfusion when there are signs that death from anemia is imminent. The procedure was pioneered by Dr. A. William Liley of Auckland, New Zealand. He inserts packed red blood cells into the infant's abdominal cavity. A special solution is injected initially into the uterus to visualize, via X-ray, the position of the placenta and gastrointestinal tract of the fetus.

A SMALL AMOUNT of fluid is withdrawn from the bag of waters to determine whether the child has a chance of living after receiving the transfusion. If results are satisfactory, the fetus is given one to three injections of blood.

This daring lifesaving procedure is considered only when the physician has sufficient evidence to prove the baby will not live through normal labor. The transfused blood is absorbed into the circulatory system, giving the infant the boost he needs to survive the birth process.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

SLIMMING DIET

C. writes: What is the zigzag slimming diet?

REPLY

This is a Russian super-crash diet in which Ivan eats only meat for the first 10 days, pot cheese for the next seven, and then either meat, curdled milk, or an apple each day. Finally, two of these foods are eaten daily for five days. An alternate zigzag diet of French origin can be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope

LUNG STONES

J. F. writes: People develop stones in the kidneys, gallbladder, and salivary glands. Do stones ever develop in the lungs?

REPLY

Broncholiths, or lung stones, are deposits of calcium. They are in the bronchus and vary in size from being scarcely visible to stones weighing four ounces.

SPASTIC BOWEL

A. J. writes: Is a specialist needed to treat colitis successfully?

REPLY

No. Spastic colitis may result from overwork, tension, or too little sleep. When the victim realizes the origin of his trouble, he can be his own specialist. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this condition.

IRRITATION

S. I. writes: What causes burning urine?

REPLY

Highly concentrated acid urine and infection are the most common origins.

PREMENSTRUAL TENSION

Mrs. A. writes: Is there any relief for premenstrual tension?

REPLY

Yes. The best remedies include sedatives, diuretics, and certain hormones. It also helps to restrict salt temporarily.

Today's Health Hint — Home should be a happy place.

Water Company Sued In Flood

Thomas J. Kent Jr., city planning professor at University of California, and his wife, Mary, yesterday filed a $32,500 damage suit in Marin Superior Court against Inverness Water Co. for the Oct. 27 flooding of their summer house.

The suit alleges negligence and disrepair of water tanks about 100 feet south of the home on Douglas Way, Inverness, resulting in a pipe bursting and the property being flooded with water and large quantities of rock and earth.

Albert M. Monaco, San Francisco attorney, represents the Kents, who reside in Berkeley.

Home On Leave

Home on leave from the Navy until June 16 is Michael H. Gamas, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Nelson Gamas of Fairfax. Following leave, Gamas, who recently completed his aviation electronics technician apprentice training in Tennessee, will go to San Diego for 16-week advanced schooling.

Talks To Resume

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Negotiations in the five-day-old strike by 4,000 machinists at Aerojet General Corp., will resume Wednesday, according to federal mediators.

College Of Marin Groups To Meet

The College of Marin advisory committee and the College of Marin Foundation will each meet at 8 p.m. in the physical education complex on the Kentfield campus.

Directors of both groups for the coming academic year will be named, then the two will join for workshop sessions on campus planning and the community curriculum survey.

Consolidation Of Districts Views Asked

The municipalities and districts committee of the Marin County Grand Jury has sent an inquiry to all the special districts in the county, asking for views on consolidation and a tax saving measure.

M. F. Donohue, chairman of the committee, said in a form letter to directors of all districts saying that his committee has reviewed the budgets of each district for the past 10 years.

The committee, he says, "noticed not only considerable increase in the number of special districts, but considerable increases in property tax requirements, as well.

"We feel that a study should be made relative to the consolidation of special districts, thereby avoiding what we feel is a duplication of effort which invariably costs Marin County property owners more."

Donohue asks for a response from the districts. "We are, therefore, seeking your views on this matter and an indication as to whether or not you would be willing to undertake consolidation proceedings."

Copies of Donohue's letter has gone to the board of supervisors.

Corte Madera Due Budget, Flood Sessions

The Corte Madera Town Council will meet twice next week, on Monday and Wednesday. Each session will start at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall.

The Wednesday session will be on the budget to again discuss funds for recreation and possible continued support for the Larkspur-Corte Madera Recreation Commission.

At the regular meeting Monday, the council will hear a report on proposed legislation for a county-wide flood control zone and will award a contract for extension of the San Clemente Creek culvert across Paradise Drive.

Adoption of an ordinance changing residence requirements for twon employees is scheduled, along with a discussion on a request for aid by Larkspur for construction of Doherty Drive past Redwood High School.

Jury Locked Up

PASADENA (AP) — The fate of wealthy Timothy Nicholson, charged with murder in the gunshot death of his twin brother, Todd, awaits further deliberations Monday by a Superior Court jury. Judge H. Burton Noble, who gave the four-week case to the jury late last Thursday, ordered the seven-man, five-woman panel locked up for the weekend after no verdict was reached yesterday.

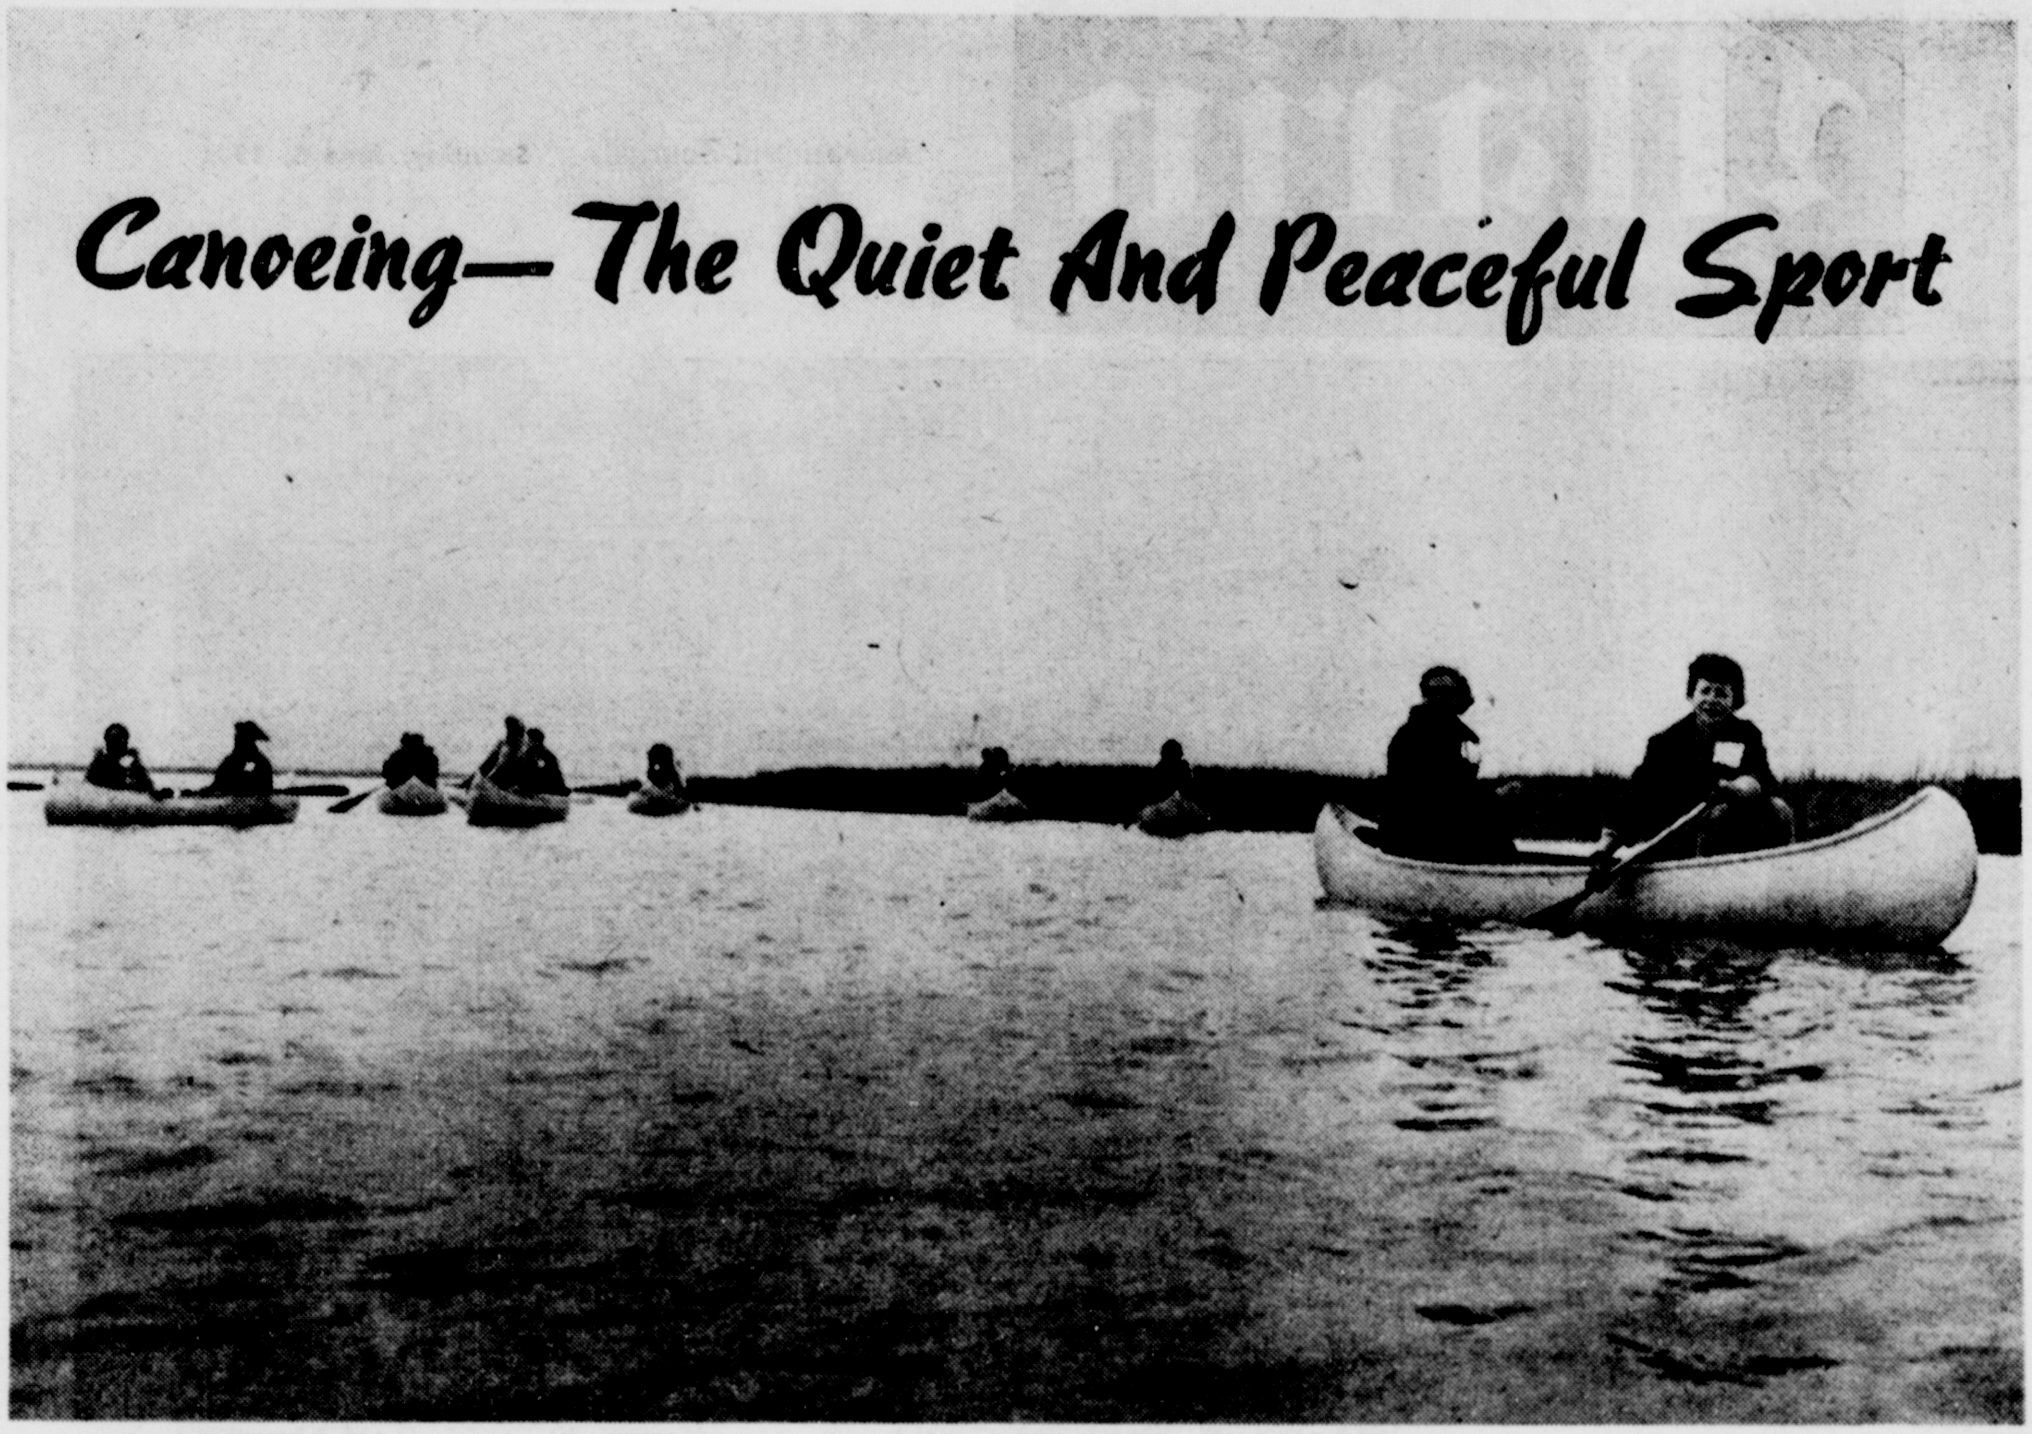
Canoeing— The Quiet And Peaceful Sport



ON A COLD AND FOGGY day, the tide was high, but so were spirits, as these women canoeists took one of their nature "cruises" up San Antonio Creek. They had used the dock of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wineman at Mira Monte Marina as their departure point. For the canoeist, these enthusiasts say, there is a feeling of bigness, quietness and "away-ness" that is experienced in few other sports.

NOT ONLY DO canoe trips provide participants with wholesome exercise and pleasureable sport, but also with an opportunity to observe and study nature—sometimes from the water, sometimes after going ashore. Here during a lunch stop at the fisherman's dock on San Antonio Creek, experienced nature-lover Lilian McHoul explains some of the finer points of the construction of a now deserted bird's nest to beginner Mrs. Philip Magee.

Nature Fans Go By Canoe

It was last October, and a group of mothers had assembled to collect their youngsters after a children's canoeing class.

Perhaps a bit envious of the fun which the children were obviously having, one mother asked: "Why can't we go canoeing, too?"

And from that originated one of Marin's liveliest and most popular outdoor adventure programs.

FIRST THERE was only a few canoes on a trial "cruise" in Upper Richardson Bay and around the creeks near the Egger & Son nursery and the Purity Store in Alto.

That experiment an unqualified success, the women then planned their first organized trip for the same general area where flocks of waterbirds — willets, mallards, yellow legs, egrets, ruddy ducks, coots, etc. —abounded and were to be observed.

Since then, nature observation excursions by canoe have been a regular event the second Monday of each month. Most of the participants are women, but men are invited to take part and some do.

MRS. CALVIN Terwilliger, ardent naturalist and conservationist who has been the mentor for so many hikes and field trips, checks the tides, the bird population and the weather, and sets the meeting place. "And then," says one participant, "away we go!"

Anyone can take part.

CORTE MADERA CREEK was enjoyed at its most picturesque and at a point where few people see it—near College Park and Kentfield Gardens—by these Monday canoeists. Overhanging trees—acacia, eucalyptus, willow and cottonwood—shade the creek and drop their blossoms into the sparkling water.

IT WAS "LOW BRIDGE" as the canoeists slipped under Highway 101, continuing upstream on Novato Creek "until we touched bottom." Nature attractions included a plenitude of swallow nests under the trestle and highway bridge, egrets, mallards, coots, white-tailed kites, buffleheads and willets along the creek banks.

or pillow, a big lunch, some old shoes, hat and sweater, and maybe a tide chart and a flower or bird book," says Mrs. Terwilliger.

Women of all ages are involved, some retired, some mothers of pre-schoolers.

THE TRIPS usually start at 10 a.m. and are through by the time school's out.

The women are interested in "getting out" — seeing Marin from a different viewpoint, enjoying the natural beauty of the county before it is further diminished, exploring the out-of-doors, learning new things, exercising, getting closeups of nature, or simply relaxing in the companionship of congenial people.

The feeling or mood of canoeing is most unusual, they insist. A canoe is quiet, peaceful and easily manageable. "We can get so close to birds, ducks, plants . . . see how other people live. Sometimes, too, paddling against the current or into the wind is an exciting challenge."

Interest in the trips has grown so that there are at least two brand new canoes in the group, and on one trip there were 14 craft in the water.

Many of the women have never canoed before, and strangely enough they are usually the long-time Californians.

Others canoed in the East years ago.

Dr. Paul Wilson and Mrs. Lillian McHoul, both retired and both experts in botany and nature, often accompany the group and add a great deal of knowledge. Mrs. Terwilliger takes her megaphone and keeps the canoeists informed.

THE GROUP is always different, with new additions each month.

"We make a circle, introduce ourselves, fasten on name tags, and shove off," they say.

For their next trip on June 14, the group will start at China Camp and go up Gallinas Creek near the Marin Civic Center. Slated later in the year are a trip from Petaluma Creek at Black Point up Novato Creek, one from Paradise Beach County Park to Corte Madera Creek, and another around Bolinas Lagoon.

Instruction classes were given by Mrs. Russell Dwyer of the Marin Chapter of the American Red Cross, and can be arranged for future groups. Camp Fire Girls have scheduled a canoe training course for their junior high school girls groups for next fall, and two families have already done a six-mile downstream Russian River trip.

CORTE MADERA Creek is an ideal spot, the canoeists say. You can drive down past the bowling alley, park the car, and launch or get permission to use the Greenbrae Sail Club dock. The Civic Center Lagoon,too, is recommended as ideal for "beginners."

Watch the tides and the five-mile-per-hour speed limit, the women advise prospective canoeists.

A New Book For The Nature Lover

Marin Men Play Roles In Project

By DON KEOWN

The title of the book is "The Flora and Fauna of Solano County."

The author and editor is Wilmere Jordan Neitzel of Suisun City, the illustrator is art consultant Dorothy Pogge Allen of the Rio Vista Elementary School District, and the publisher is the Solano County Office of Education where Mrs. Neitzel works as a consultant.

And the book was printed in the San Francisco plant of the James H. Barry Co.

NEVERTHELESS, Marinites have played prominent roles in the publication of the new nature book.

William H. Barry Jr., executive vice president of the nearly a century old printing firm, is a Kentfield resident.

Tony Guerrero, the Barry superintendent of lithography, who did all the color plates for the book, resides in Terra Linda.

Other Marinites associated with the pioneer printing firm, founded by James Henry Barry, who came to California in 1859 as a boy and who played a prominent role in the state's political life as well as in its publishing, include Lee L. Larimer of Belvedere, vice president and sales manager; Robert MacIntosh of Tiburon, sales representative, and Harold De Lauff of San Rafael, lithographic technician.

THE BARRY firm was wiped out by the 1906 earthquake and fire, but arose from the ashes to become one of the leading printers in San Francisco. Modern offices and shop are now located at 170 South Van Ness Avenue. Included are a complete letterpress, lithograph and bindery department with modern high-speed multicolored presses.

Past work has included the printing of many fine volumes and private editions including the four-volume work by the noted Franciscan historian Father Zephyrin Engelhart entitled "Missions and Missionaries of California" and "Hunting With Bow and Arrow" by the late Dr. Saxon Pope.

The new nature book was four years in its preparation. Mrs. Neitzel and her fellow members of the Solano County Office of Education staff had the assistance of state and local educators, naturalists and conservationists, and there was also some state financial assistance for the project.

In addition to the funds provided by the Solano County Office of Education, Mrs. Neitzel also made a personal investment in her project.

IN ALL, ARTIST Mrs. Allen turned out more than 400 pictures of Solano County plants, animals, insects, fish and birds. And all were to be reproduced in full color.

Nor was the usual practice of segregating all of the color plates to a few selected pages followed.

Instead, the color plates were distributed throughout the pages of the book so as to accompany the corresponding text.

This meant that there would be multiple color illustrations upon virtually every page of the 158-page book.

"TO SAVE THEM money, we ganged the pictures and shot them 20 at a time," Guerrero says. "Then we had to cut them all apart. Because four colors were being used, each plate had to be done in quadruplicate. And all these had to be positioned perfectly."

It was, Barry and Guerrero admit, one of the more intricate undertakings of their firm. It was also one of the more satisfying.

The result, they feel, is a book with unusually beautiful and instructive illustrations.

Guerrero has high praise for the art work of Mrs. Allen. "The quality was exceptional," he says.

And the reproduction that has been achieved is worthy of her efforts, he also believes.

THE PRINTING was on a fine quality white woven vellum, sturdily clothbound, also in white.

In addition to the parts played by Marinites in the preparation of the color plates and the printing of the book, Guerrero believes the volume also has another link with Marin.

"Virtually all of its contents are as applicable to Marin as they are to Solano," he says. "There is no reason why Marin children and adults could not use it as a nature guide and study book, just as their counterparts in Solano County are doing."

Guerrero, himself a nature enthusiast who received a special satisfaction from his work as a result, adds: "We've checked the complete contents and found that all of the flowers, animals, birds, bugs and fish are, with a very few exceptions, present in Marin. In those few cases which do not apply to our county the subjects are unique to Solano County alone."

THE BOOK HAS already met with a favorable acceptance in Solano County, Guerrero adds.

"We had an advance indication of the book's probable success through the interest our

PAGES FOR HER BOOK, "The Flora and Fauna of Solano County," are examined with approval as they come from the presses by author-editor Wilmere Jordan Neitzel and by William H. Barry Jr. of Kentfield, executive vice president of the James H. Barry Co. which printed the book in its San Francisco plant. The printing firm is a pioneer company, founded in 1879, that has long specialized in such fine volumes.

PREPARING to "shoot" the line shots for the color illustrations for "The Flora and Fauna of Solano County" is Tony Guerrero of Terra Linda, lithographic superintendent of the James H. Barry Co. Dorothy Pogge Allen's paintings of plants, animals and insects were "ganged" into batches of 20 or more for the lithographer's camera. More than 400 color illustrations are included in the new nature book.

own employees showed in it," Guerrero says. "They all had their noses in its pages. And all our extra copies vanished quickly."

Mrs. Neitzel undertook the project, he says, because in her schoolwork she discovered that children were bringing in wildflowers and other specimens of flora and fauna and trying — often unsuccessfully — to identify them.

Now those children can bring their specimens into their biology class and, with the aid of the new book, make a quick and certain identification.

The author - editor, incidentally, is a niece of California Secretary of State Frank Jordan.

A PROBABLE future project is a Bay Area edition of the book. Very few revisions will be required to make the content applicable area-wide, Guerrero believes.

But in the meantime, he is also certain, Marinites, especially youngsters, will find the book quite suited to their needs as it is.

The book is available to the general public from the Solano County superintendent of schools, Fairfield, at $5 per copy.

The book is being distributed without charge to teachers at appropriate grade levels throughout the schools of Solano County, to be used as a reference for their pupils.

Says Fred G. McCombs, Solano County superintendent of schools: "Mrs. Neitzel is to be complimented on the tremendous amount of time and effort she has given to this work. It should serve a real educational purpose in our schools."

A NEGATIVE assembly for the book is prepared by Harold De Lauff, a lithographic technician at the Barry company. De Lauff is yet another Marinite at the pioneer San Francisco printing firm, living in San Rafael's Loch Lomond.

Marinites Of K-Bridge

They Hold Key Posts At Station

Most Marinites are aware that among them live a clear majority of broadcasting/advertising people in the Bay Area.

Three of these people constitute exactly one-quarter of the staff of San Francisco's newest radio station, KBRG — pronounced "K-Bridge" in honor of a feature of the Bay Area landscape that is familiar and important to Marinites.

They are John H. Sunier, a Sausalito houseboat-dweller, and the station manager; Roy H. Trumbull of Corte Madera, chief engineer of the station, and Ernest D. St. Germain of San Rafael, an announcer-operator.

A FEW FACTS about K-Bridge: It is a fulltime stereo FM station programming concert music from 6 a.m. to midnight daily at 105.3 on the FM dial.

It is part of the Apollo Broadcasting System, a network of concert music stations with similar programming.

Its 50,000 watts of power from a transmitter site in the center of San Francisco make it the most powerful concert music station on the air in this area.

A GREAT DEAL of classical music fills the air waves in the Bay Area.

KBRG's service offers these unique advantages: The network has one full-time music director who does nothing else but select all the music to be heard about two months in advance of broadcasting.

This schedule is then published, selection by selection with names of performers, record labels, and timing information, in FM & The Arts, another Marin County publication. The programming is distinguished by its comprehensiveness — instead of limiting itself to the Tchaikovsky-Brahms-Beethoven area of orchestral music it ventures into chamber music, vocal music, early music and contemporary music to broaden listeners' musical experience.

EACH SELECTION is introduced and usually discussed for a minute or two by a completely separate staff of music hosts. These specialists have rich backgrounds in concert music presentation and musicology.

Finally, KBRG programming is 100 per cent in highest fidelity stereo sound.

K-Bridge also has several special programs of interest.

Most important is the "Boston Symphony Broadcast," heard

SAUSALITO RESIDENT John Sunier, station manager of KBRG, auditions a new classical release for his program, "The New Records," heard week nights from 9 to 10 o'clock on San Francisco's newest FM radio outlet. Sunier reviews each new release, perhaps comparing it with other recordings of the same composition, and then plays the complete selection. He also writes the "Stereo Scene" column for the Independent-Journal Marin Magazine, reviewing jazz and folk as well as classical recordings.

Tips on Purchase and Home Care of Your Wardrobe

MARIN CLEANERS Phone 454-4792 — Member N.I.D. of San Rafael, Bel Aire & Fairfax

"Why Did Water Make Dark Spots On My Blue Dress?"

Your drycleaner probably cannot remove those dark spots on your blue dress. The reason water splashes made dark spots, is due to the fabric itself. Your dress is a plain taffeta weave rayon. Tests show that the spots were caused by a disturbance of the sizing.

The warp yarns in your dress are heavily sized to give additional body stiffness to the fabric. This heavy sizing is readily soluble in cold water. The filling yarns are not sized to any extend so that the dress has its desirable soft, dull appearance. When water was splashed on the garment the sizing from the warp yarns was absorbed by the filling yarns. When the water dried, dark spots appeared.

It's not always possible to restore the original appearance of such a fabric when the sizing has been disturbed. If the damage is slight your drycleaner may be able to improve the situation. If it is great, you may get better results by having the entire garment wet-cleaned, removing all sizing and then have the garment re-sized to the desired stiffness. These processes may only give limited satisfaction, but should make your dress wearable, if not new in appearance.

Summer is here. Patio time is here. Barbecuing time is here. Yes, it's outdoor living for Marin. How can you enjoy it more than ever before? By using your stereo tape recorder for background music. Put on a discoteque tape and have a ball. Use it for recording the informal barbecue sessions then play the tape back.

If you do not have a portable tape recorder, you can add one to your family possessions from as low as $169 for full stereo systems. Many models to choose from, and if you decide to purchase an Ampex 1000 or 2000 series you will receive $100 worth of stereo tapes absolutely free.

Another way to enhance your enjoyment is to use a portable patio speaker system instead of a tape recorder. The new models look like airplane type luggage. They are light and easily moved from room to room or to patio.

What's new! Just arrived dynamic microphones with modern styling and a low, low price. Just the thing for the recording fans. They are made by American Microphone Co., now a division of Electrovoice, and cost only 12 dollars. Another new product is the entry of Electrovoice into the component field with a dual 20 watt stereo amp/preamp combination. It is completely transistorized, and handsomely packaged. Another model is available with 40 watts per channel. Tuners will follow soon.

AS STATION MANAGER of KBRG-FM, John Sunier is responsible, not only for programming, but for engineering, sales, promotion and other departments as well. The station is commercial, dependent upon advertising support, and here Sunier gives his attention to financial matters.

CHIEF ENGINEER Roy Trumbull is seen at his transmitter on Mount Sutro above San Francisco. A College of Marin student, he is also familiar to Bay Area residents as the disc jockey presiding on KBRG's "Under the Bridge" folk music show, seen Sunday at 8:05 p.m.

IN THE MAIN STUDIO of KBRG-FM on San Francisco's Union Square, Ernest St. Germain of San Rafael, announcer-operator, "cues up" a stereo record for the next selection while monitoring the music going out over the air through the headset. Black knobs are volume controls for microphones and turntables, the piano-key buttons controls for the tape recorders. A short time later St. Germain will be delivering one of the station's five-minute newscasts.

A STETHOSCOPE helps engineer Roy Trumbull listen closely to one of the five KBRG turntables that spin the records at the Apollo Broadcasting System station. He is on the alert for a "rumble" that would annoy high-fidelity listeners with wide range loudspeakers, destroying their enjoyment of the concert music.

every Wednesday night from 7 to 9 p.m.

Another is "Stereotape Concert" programmed entirely from pre-recorded four-track stereotapes. "And Not Without Humor" is the hour when K-Bridge lets its long hair down for some fun. Both of these programs are stereocast Saturday nights.

ON SUNDAY afternoons beginning at 2:05, the only complete opera broadcast in stereo in the the Bay Area is featured on "Stereopera."

Sunier, Trumbull and St. Germain have widely divergent work schedules at the station, whose efficient new studios are located on Union Square in San Francisco.

St. Germain crosses the bridge at the rising of the sun for 6 a.m. sign-on. Sunier generally follows regular business hours. And Trumbull is the "night-person" of the group, what with the studio equipment and transmitter being available to him for maintenance only between midnight and 6 a.m.

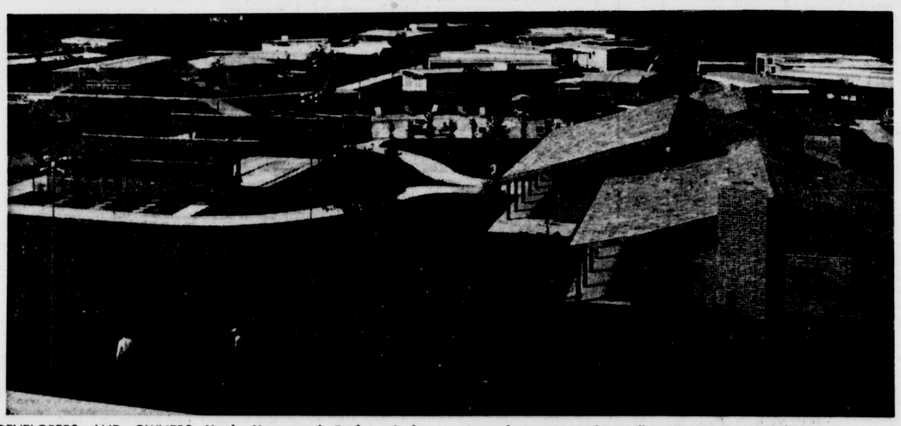
MR. AND MRS. JAMES NANCE, formerly of San Anselmo, are en route to the recreation center of the Moon Valley Mobile Home Park at Sonoma where they now reside, for an afternoon of relaxation. The Nances selected mobile home living after his retirement.

AT THE RECREATION center which Marin builders Hugh Harn and Parker Archer, co-owners and developers, have provided at their Moon Valley Mobile Home Park for their residents, James Nance, right, formerly of San Anselmo, enjoys a game of billiards with one of his new acquaintances. The Nances have found mobile home life ideal for the relaxation and recreation of retirement life.

SHUFFLEBOARD IS yet another activity open to the James Nances and their fellow residents of the Moon Valley Mobile Home Park. Luxurious recreation facilities contribute to the pleasant, relaxed way of life.

THE KITCHEN facilities of the Moon Valley Recreation Center are open to the Nances, although Mrs. Nance also has compact, ample and up-to-date appliances in her own mobile home.

THE NANCES RELAX on the patio of their mobile home. They have found their new way of life especially suited to their liking for outdoor living.



DEVELOPERS AND OWNERS Hugh Harn and Parker Archer planned their Moon Valley Mobile Home Park so that the dwellings front on wide walkways set in greenbelts away from streets, and so that no step-climbing is required of the occupants to enter their houses.

MARIN COUPLE

Their Retirement Home Is Mobile

Where to live after retirement, when the family home has obviously become too large for the couple now living alone?

That's a problem that has puzzled many Marin senior citizens.

It confronted Mr. and Mrs. James Nance last year, and they reached a solution that is interesting more and more Marinites as their retirement years draw near.

That solution: A mobile home.

NANCE IS A retired lithographer.

Born in Arkansas, he came to California at an early age. He worked as a linotype operator at the San Rafael Independent, 45 years ago, before the newspaper became the Independent-Journal.

He later went to work in San Francisco, commuting from Marin until his retirement.

AT THE TIME of his retirement, Mr. and Mrs. Nance were living in the large house they owned on San Francisco Boulevard in San Anselmo. "We began to feel that it was too much for us to care for, and that we were just rattling around in it," they say.

They began toying with the idea of living in a mobile home. This plan they discarded temporarily because they felt they could not give up the furnishings and keepsakes they had acquired in their lifetime, and they were certain their possessions would never fit into a mobile home.

Their quest turned to smaller homes without success.

AND THEN ONE day they visited Moon Valley, one of California's newest and most luxurious mobile home parks at Sonoma. The park is the product of two Marin builders — Hugh Harn of Tiburon and Parker Archer of Greenbrae.

The Moon Valley Mobile Home Park made a lasting impression on the Nances.

The couple sold their San Anselmo house and moved to Moon Valley on Dec. 1, 1964.

How do they like this new kind of home?

"WE LOVE IT," Mrs. Nance says. "It's comfortable, spacious and beautiful."

And those furnishings and keepsakes?

The pain of disposing of the old furniture was alleviated for Mrs. Nance by the beauty of the furnishings that awaited them in their new quarters.

As for the keepsakes, the Nances found that there was space for many more belongings than they had expected.

"Why we have more storage in our two-bedroom, two-bath mobile home than we ever had in our big house," she asserts.

MRS. NANCE'S approval of the harmonious color scheme of the mobile home was a professional one. She worked for a number of years as a decorator in Marin shops.

Moon Valley provides the Nances with a location just eight blocks from Sonoma's city square.

Harn and Archer say they made an extensive tour and study of mobile home parks in Florida, Arizona and Southern California before laying out Moon Valley.

"WE FOUND that most parks had the disadvantage of having homes at a higher than street level, requiring the residents to climb steps to enter," Archer says. "We solved that problem by extensive grading so that each sidewalk entry-way could be laid out virtually at street level, similar to most homes."

Another objection heard from residents of mobile home parks was aimed at the practice of facing the dwellings toward the street with the attendant traffic danger and noise.

The rural atmosphere of the Sonoma County location partially solved this problem. But in addition, Harn and Archer planned their park so that each street ends in a cul-de-sac with a greenbelt walkway. The mobile homes front on an eight-foot-wide landscaped (and lighted at night) walkway that ambles leisurely the length and breadth of the entire community.

RECREATION facilities provided for residents center around a recreation center complete with stone fireplace, auditorium with stage, kitchen and separate men's and women's card rooms. There are a heated swimming pool, professional putting green, whirlpool bath, outdoor dance pavillion, barbecue pits, croquet court, shuffleboard courts and fully-equipped hobby shops.

Utilities are underground. Air conditioning, closed circuit television, master TV antenna, paved and lighted streets, washer-dryer laundry rooms, individual mail delivery and the park-like landscaping are other community assets.

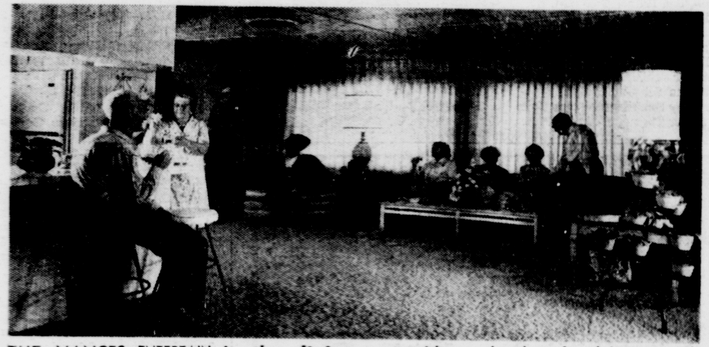
Mobile homes at Moon Valley range in price from $8,500 to $22,000, and from one to three bedrooms. All are furnished, with patios and terracing as well.

THE ONLY "property tax" that confronts the mobile home owner, Harn and Archer point out, is a trailer license.

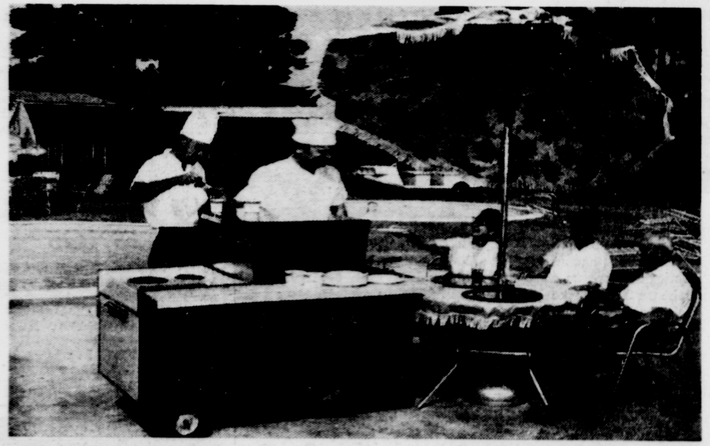
The development covers 36 acres of what was originally the old Benedict Ranch. Available sites will accommodate 252 homes when the park is completed and fully occupied.

From their new home at Sonoma, the Nances have been able to maintain their Marin County ties. Each Sunday they attend services at the First Baptist Church in San Anselmo where they are members.

For the Nances, at least, the mobile home has been the answer to their problem of where to live after retirement.



THE NANCES ENTERTAIN in the living room of their mobile home. Their new residence, they have found, is surprisingly spacious. It contains two bedrooms and two baths.



IT IS THE NANCES' turn to be entertained, and their hosts are Hugh Harn, left, and Parker Archer, co-owners of the Moon Valley Mobile Home Park where the Nances reside. Harn and Archer are both Marin builders. The scene here is at the poolside, part of the recreational facilities provided for residents of the park. (Photos by Pearson and Cardoza)

On The Stereo Scene

By JOHN SUNIER
KBRG Station Manager

SAMUEL BARBER: Piano Concerto — John Browning, piano; WILLIAM SCHUMAN: A Song of Orpheus—Leonard Rose, cello, and the Cleveland Orchestra conducted by George Szell—Columbia Stereo MS 6638:

Two modern American pieces in the conservative style which should win many friends in this recording.

It is also one of the first releases by Szell and his orchestra on the Columbia label since their departure from Epic.

The Barber concerto is hardly three years old, but has already had more performances than can be reasonably expected of a new work of music in this country. It is easily understood and yet is not "square," in the sense of going overboard to reach the masses, as does much modern Soviet music.

The Schuman piece is a set of variations for cello and orchestra on a song he wrote for a dramatic production some years ago.

Very good stereophonics.

MENDELSSOHN: The Two Concertos for Two Pianos and Orchestra — Arthur Gold and Robert Fizdale with Philadelphia Orchesrta conducting by Eugene Ormandy — Columbia Stereo MS 6681:

First stereo discing of both concerti, replacing an old Vox lp with the same natural coupling. Not bad compositions for a boy only 15 and 16 years of age at time of writing!

The young Mendelssohn was a prodigy in the same way that Mozart was. Already in these works most of the elements that constitute the true Mendelssohnian style are in clear evidence.

It would also be hard to find two works better suited to the stereophonic medium than these concerti.

BRITTEN: Matinees and Soirees Musicales; RESPIGHI: Rossiniana—Vienna State Opera Orchestra conducted by Robert Zeller—Westminster Stereo WST-17073:

The 10 short pieces included in the two Britten suites are very simple and direct in their composition. They are all re-workings of Rossini melodies. Thus the coupling with the Respighi selection, which alludes in its very title to the source of the material. These are the only records out at present of all three.

Our Reviewers Report

Typical Connelly

SOUVENIR FROM QAM by Marc Connelly, Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 192 pages, $4.50. Reviewed by Lois Sens.

Newton Bemis is an unbelievably intelligent man, yet with a moderate opinion of himself.

So much so, that when an article describing his genius appears in Short magazine, Newton is outraged. However, when the Suruki King reads the piece, he immediately sends an invitation and Alitalia jet offering one million dollars for the genius' services.

So goes the plot in typical Connellyese, especially good when he's made up his mind to mix a little fun with foreign intrigue. It's an enjoyable book by the author of "Green Pastures" with movie scripts and magazine articles to his credit as well.

Will Bemis take the bribe? What is the real reason the oil-rich king of Suruk has sent for him? Will Newton's fiance understand the most unusual gift returning to America with him?

It's worth reading Mr. Connelly's book to find out.

Teener's Service

WITH ALL MY LOVE by Penny DeFore, Prentice-Hall, 175 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Lee Cadwallader.

On Dec. 17, 1960, 18-year-old Penny DeFore was on her way to a Korean orphanage to spend a year. She hoped to brighten the lives of the attractive orphans she'd met in California while they were here making a movie.

Once she reached Korea, not much turned out as she had planned. Despite disappointments, however, she managed to gain valuable experience with much help from understanding friends.

She is indeed fortunate to have enriched her life through service and adventure. I must admit to a personal bias against the slick Hollywood style of writing here, but I did enjoy sharing some of her experiences through this book actually written by Penny's father, actor Don DeFore, based on her letters.

If she continues to mature and follows her convictions, she should be able to write a fine book of her own, once she decides to just live her life and stop feeling she must explain it.

Policy Maker

DULLES ON DIPLOMACY by Andrew H. Berding, D. Van Nostrand Co., 184 pages, Reviewed by Frank Farrara.

The backbone of Berding's work is formed by the words of the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, who was strongly defended and strongly criticized when he fashioned U.S. foreign policy.

Berding, who served as assistant secretary of state for public affairs under Dulles, relies on his shorthand notes of private conversations as well as official statements.

Dulles is revealed as an earnest, hard-working, knowledgeable secretary of state with strong convictions and tenacity.

Although Berding makes no pretense at presenting a biography, he does show Dulles as a warmer, more human personality than his public image as a stern, inflexible, arbitrary leader.

One of the most disconcerting elements of the book is that many of the problems which Dulles faced—Berlin, Southeast Asia, Red China, disarmament, etc.—are still unsolved.

Berding classifies Dulles as a strong secretary of state, who worked in harmony with President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Dulles has been linked with a policy labeled "brinkmanship," but Berding contends that Dulles never used the word. Instead, he pointed out, Dulles said that the U.S. has to be prepared to go to the verge of war, if necessary.

"The willingness to wage war, if necessary, is in fact an assurance of peace," Dulles said.

Dulles felt that the most difficult problem he faced was disarmament, and his greatest success was in what he called "peace through deterrence."

Above all, it was Dulles' philosophy that the U.S. has to wage peace with the same vigor that it wages war.

Whether the reader agrees or disagrees with the Dulles theories, he will gain an insight into Dulles' thinking.

For Drakeophiles

THE AGE OF DRAKE by James A. Williamson, World Publishing Co. (Meridian Books), 365 pages, paperback, $2.25. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

In the reign of Elizabeth I, England first tried to reap treasure by sea and to plant colonies on foreign coasts, though Elizabeth herself can scarcely be given credit for this, for the "virgin queen" was a great vaccilator.

The credit, rather, goes to daring men. And the one among them whose name stands out in history was Sir Francis Drake, an incident of whose career touched what is now Marin. Thus, author James A. Williamson chose to call his maritime history of Elizabeth's time "The Age of Drake."

Historian Williamson's book is both scholarly and easy to read — a combination still rare enough to be remarkable. If proper British patriotism causes him to try to explain away frequent examples of perfidy by the early British sea raiders, conscientious scholarship nevertheless causes him to record them.

"The Age of Drake" was originally published in England, and its second edition has been used by Meridian Books in bringing it out as an American paperback.

Drakeophiles will find it adds new dimension to their hero. Others may find interest in the swashbuckling stirrings that were to lead to creation of the British Empire.

What Not To Do

OATH OF DISHONOR by Garet Rogers, Dial Press, 495 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Lee Cadwallader.

If all the puny puns in this novel were deleted, the book would be one-fifth as long. The author doesn't show the least inclination for characterization or the discipline of editing (neither does the publisher).

All this is a maddening shame because the plot could have been good.

It was the author's intention to show the injustice of most malpractice suits and illustrate the status rivalry between the medical and legal professions. But her lack of talent and insight caused her to produce a model example of "what not to do when writing a novel."

Burial Grounds

ARLINGTON, MONUMENT TO HEROES by John V. Hinkel, Prentice-Hall, 150 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

Arlington National Cemetery is by all odds the most historic and most impressive of our federal burial grounds. It overlooks the city of Washington from what was once the estate of George Washington's stepson, John Custis, and later the home of Gen. Robert E. Lee.

It became a cemetery in 1864, when the bodies of freed Negro slaves—contraband of the war—were buried there, along with those of Union soldiers. The bodies of men who fought for the Confederacy lie there, too, along with those of soldiers in all the wars the United States has since fought, and of military and government leaders from all the years between.

John V. Hinkel, a reserve Army colonel and public relations man, tells the story of Arlington and some of those who are buried there in "Arlington, Monument to Heroes."

It is a well-researched, well-printed, well-designed, well- illustrated volume. But it reads like a series of Memorial Day addresses, a brand of prose which soon surfeits the reader.

Sleuths & Suspense

THE BELTING INHERITANCE by Julian Symons, Harper & Row, 210 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

To say that there is an old-fashioned flavor to "The Belting Inheritance" is by no means to belittle it.

It is a skilfully written novel, strong on atmosphere and suspense, with keenly drawn characters and with a puzzle plot that intrigues and challenges.

The narrator is young Christopher Barrington who as a lad goes to the stately English country home called Belting to live with his great aunt. There he becomes innocently involved in family intrigue, the roots of which reach back into the past of which he knows little. Is the man who claims to be David Wainwright really the son and one of the heirs of Lady Wainwright, long thought dead, or is he an imposter? And who has committed murder?

No reader will find his interest lagging until he has completed the closing chapters which switch from rural England to cosmopolitan Paris.

Before Zorba

FREEDOM OR DEATH, by Nikos Kazantzakis, Ballantine Books ,496 pages, paperback, 95 cents. Reviewed by Robert M. Coppock.

Persons who saw "Zorba the Greek," based on another book by this author, may wish they had read this book first.

The paperback, released in time to catch the movie, is from a translation first published in 1955 by the late European author.

The hero, Captain Michales, is almost the exact opposite of Zorba. He is a man with a great sense of honor and no sense of humor. But he, like Zorba, has his touch of madness.

There is another contrast with Zorba. In that book, the people of Crete are ugly, provincial, cruel, superstitious and horrible. In "Freedom or Death," they have the same characteristics, but they also have become noble, heroic and tragic in their futile attempt to throw off the Turks who rule the island.

The scene is Crete in the late 19th century, and the relation between Greeks and Turks in the book might give the reader a little better idea of sentiments today on Cyprus.

THE BOOK PAGES

A Study Of The Meredith Case Probes South's Racial Pattern

By DON KEOWN

THE PAST THAT WOULD NOT DIE by Walter Lord, Harper & Row, 275 pages, $4.95.

The most revealing study we have yet encountered of hard-core bigotry in the Deep South is Walter Lord's "The Past That Would Not Die."

Lord's book is primarily the story of the James H. Meredith enrollment at the University of Mississippi, and the senseless violence it triggered.

But in putting those episodes into their proper historical perspective, the author provides his readers with a most perceptive analysis of the so-called "southern way of life."

What makes Lord's book so exceptional, we suspect, is the rather astonishing amount of cooperation he received from all sides involved in the controversy, as well as those who observed from the sidelines. Everyone from Ross Barnett and Gen. Edwin A. Walker to Medgar Evers and Robert Kennedy talked freely.

Lord topped off these valuable sources with many, many contacts with lesser figures. He also delved deeply into the mountains of written material bearing upon his subject including the historical roots of the southern racial stance.

And, of course, he talked to Meredith himself.

Lord presents his findings in an objective, impersonal vein, but with exceptional literary skill. His story reflects the excitement, passions and the urgency of his subject. And it beams light into many previously shadowy nooks of the southern mystique that must have puzzled many of us in the past.

There is no shortage of books exploring the southern racial situation these days. Few, if any, illuminate and evaluate as clearly as does "The Past That Would Not Die." It is a solid contribution to national understanding of a sectional problem that, it becomes apparent, is a good deal more complex than some of us have realized. In making this contribution, Lord adds lustre to the Merediths and others who sometimes risk their very lives for a worthwhile cause, making it plain that not all those who oppose them should be written off as evil or self-serving.

THE 1965 "Britannica Book of the Year," published for the 28th year as the annual supplement to the 24-volume, 197-year-old Encyclopaedia Britannica, sums up the previous year in a million words with 515 articles written by 404 contributors. Featured are "The Teacher and the Taught in the USSR" by ex-Sen. William Benton and "A Wilderness Bill of Rights" by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

WALTER LORD is the author of "The Past That Would Not Die," a study of the Southern racial position in general and of the James Meredith case in particular. It is one of the newest and best of a recent surge of books upon America's racial problems.

Handyman's Page

ALMOST every homemaker will tell you her biggest problem is finding storage room. The closet shown here can help solve that problem. For the Easi-Bild pattern, send 75 cents to Independent-Journal, P. O. Box 215, Briarcliff Manor, N.Y., 10510, and ask for Pattern No. 263. While the directions explain how to build a cabinet four feet wide and six feet high, the construction details have been so simplified that they can be adjusted to build to any size desired. Only stock materials are required. And the materials list furnished with the pattern also tells you where each piece is to be placed. It is a simple do-it-yourself project that requires no great skill in cabinetry from the home handyman.

Problem Of Pores In Wood

To fill or not to fill the open pores of mahogany, walnut and oak is apparently of considerable concern to many persons who want to finish pieces of furniture made of those woods.

Most letter writers seem to have the feeling that there is some pat reply that will satisfy everyone. There isn't.

As with almost everything else in the wood finishing area, it's a matter of taste. If you want an absolutely smooth surface for the finishing coat, then such woods require the application of paste wood filler. But if you like the textured, woodsy appearance of the open pores, then by all means forget about the filler.

EXPERIENCE HAS taught us that mahogany, walnut and oak seem to need a filler if the final coat is to be glossy, no filler if it is to be dull or flat. This, however, is opinion. Form your own by looking at furniture in your friends' houses, department stores and furniture showrooms.

If you decide to use a paste wood filler, you will need some burlap, a clean cloth and a liquid thinner, usually either naptha or turpentine. When buying the filler, read the directions on the container to determine which liquid should be used. Only enough liquid should be mixed with the paste to produce a combination that flows very slowly, like thick molasses.

Apply the filler with a brush, moving with the grain and in generous quantities. Immediately go over it again, this time across the grain and with light strokes. The filler quickly begins to lose its wet, shiny appearance —in a matter of a few minutes. Now take a piece of burlap and, using a circular motion but bearing down as you go across the grain, rub the surface. The filler gets into the open pores mostly from the movement of the burlap across the grain.

Finally, clean the surface with a dry cloth, moving in the direction of the grain and with a light touch.

WAIT A FEW minutes and inspect the surface thoroughly, being certain there is plenty of light during the inspection. You will be able to tell quickly whether the pores of the wood have been filled properly. If not repeat the entire operation, this time using a lighter mixture.

When the filler has dried thoroughly, preferably a day or two, seal it in before applying the finishing coats. The sealer can be thinned shellac or any similar product recommended by your dealer.

In addition to mahogany, walnut and oak, some of the woods which have open pores are chestnut, hickory, rosewood, ash, elm, butternut, satinwood and locust.

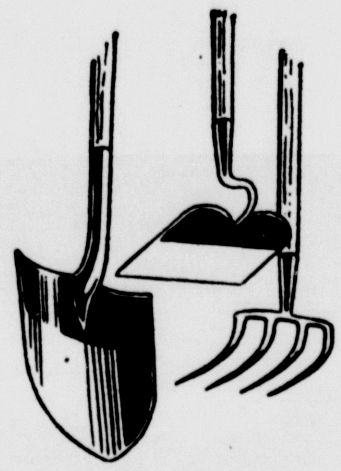
What's New For The Gardener?



Life is much easier for the gardener these days, what with new power equipment, lights to produce healthier plants, hoses that roll around, then wind up, mowers that float on air, and even specially designed clothing.

Seeds, fertilizers, insecticides, seedlings and shrubs arrive from the nursery in attractive, easy-to-handle packages. Tools are lighter so that the lady of the backyard may make a greater physical contribution to the outdoor production.

Safety is a major goal of power and hand tool manufacturers.

One rotary power producer reports a brake he claims will stop a blade operating at 3,600 revolutions a minute in less than half a second. The operator trips the mechanism. A spring tightens the brake against the flywheel, stopping the blade and mower engine.

THE MOWER that rides above the ground is supported by air pressure developed by an impeller. This wheelless craft is highly maneuverable. The air force holds up the grass for cutting and the cuttings drop beneath the machine. The cutting height is adjustable.

Garden tools designed to eliminate potential electrical hazard in trimming wet grass and shrubs have been introduced this season.

These include a hedge trimmer, a grass shear and an edger-trimmer, made safer by non-metalic housing, which also makes them lighter. Chance of electrical shock is eliminated because hands do not come in contact with metal parts. Motor, gears and other parts are insulated from the shatterproof case.

A new line of garden shears is being made with what is described as "floating fulcrum action," said to add extra cutting force as more cutting pressure is needed.

THE MANUFACTURER says these grass, pruning and hedge shears have built-in muscle power. Here, too, the 14 models include lightweights for ladies. They also have an adjustable setting button permitting three different cutting positions.

Then there is that traveling sprinkler that tends your lawn almost automatically.

It travels any predetermined path laid out by the hose as it waters (over hills and around corners) and winds itself up as it goes. It have two speeds and a shut-off valve.

Another development in the power mower field is the hammer knife, which reportedly renovates turf, mows lawns, shreds weeds and mulches leaves. It works on the flail principle.

Not all these new developments will be obtainable at your garden supply dealer or nursery at this time, but they will be showing up soon.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

✔Check your nursery for lobelia in flats for a bright swath of blue for edgings or pots. Give it rich, moist soil, and some shade. Other flat-grown summer flowering plants to put in now are bluebells, coreopsis, penstemon and phlox.

✔For a bright-blooming shrub that can take the warmest sun, plant oleanders in pink, white, red or salmon. Don't worry about water once they're established.

✔Consider some of the new floribunda roses for container plants. You can keep them happy in a 12-inch pot for years, and move them behind the scenes when they're not in bloom.

✔Finish pruning late-blooming deciduous shrubs. Cut back vines such as wisteria, honeysuckle or Passion Vine. Pinch back tips of chrysanthemums for bushy, compact plants. Disbud dahlias for larger bloom.

✔From now on, watering should be done regularly and thoroughly. Water enough to soak soil to a depth of at least six inches. A mulch will help retain moisture.

"If all the world is a stage, then all history is a great story storehouse and casting department rolled into one," Disney says. "It's the story that counts. The time is incidental."

As proof he offers his two-part American revolutionary adventure, "Johnny Tremain," on "Wonderful World of Color" on KRON-TV, Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

THE SHOW is based on the famous Esther Forbes book which is required outside reading in many of the nation's schools. Its chief character is a youthful witness to the nation's most significant days.

Since the days of his childhood, when he listened avidly to stories of his pioneering forebears, Disney has had an intense interest in American history. And when he expanded into television and live-action motion picture production, the way was clear for serious devotion to his favorite field and he started off by intriguing the nation with his Davy Crockett stories.

He soon discovered his main problem was selectivity.

"WE FOUND ourselves facing an embarrassment of riches," he says. "Every page of research revealed marvelous untold material fairly shouting for picturization. And so filming a story on the War of Independence was an inevitability."

"This is a very pertinent story," avers Walt. "What we were fighting for then, we are fighting for now."

AREA RUGS

Illustrated are some of the uses for these stunning and unusual deep wool rugs. Each one is an individual artistic design available in a variety of sizes. Colors are little short of sensational!

CUSTOM CARPETING

Some of our carpet can be woven any width to exactly fit your room—there is no waste at all.

- You can select the colors shown or bring in a sample of material or paint chip and the carpet will be dyed exactly to match.
- Select from deep, deep luxurious wool or nylon just the texture and weave best suited to your room—price is determined only by the amount of material used.
- A very specially priced deep wool shag woven to your size in a choice of selected plain or tweed yarns for a limited time only.

This is the place where you can bring your doubts about color, your uncertainties about style—and trade them for a definite decorating plan.

Imagine having bedspreads, draperies and even carpeting made exactly to your order! For particular people this is an exciting way to shop and be certain the final results will be just right.

BEDSPREADS...

In addition to the large selection of ready-made spreads we feature custom made spreads in a great variety of colors and patterns.
